Editor honored at pageant

Farmington Observer Community Life editor Mary Rodrique was honored with a Woman of Achievement 2000 award from the Miss Farmington/Oakland Gounty pageant Wednesday ovening.

The award was presented dur-ing the Miss Farmington schol-arship pageant at the Civic Thearship pageant at the Civic The-atre.

Rodrique, who has been the community life editor in Farm-ington since July, 1996, was cited for her comprehensive cov-erage of the local pageant sys-

In 1989, the Miss America organization established the national Woman of Achievement award as part of the organization's initiative to extend giving outside of its system of competitions, and to recognize women of chlevement.

For the first time in its 27-year istory.

the Miss history, the Miss Farmington/Oakland County

For you: Linda Jolicoeur presents Farmington Observer Community Life Editor Mary Rodrique with the Woman of Achievement Award at the pageant.

pageant presented the award, which will be given annually to a woman who has made a contribution to an issue of benefit to the communities of Farmington and Farmington Hills.

Rodrique will receive a $200 check, on behalf of the Longacro House, to be presented to the charity of her choice, which is the St. Vincent & Sarah Fisher Center.

Farmington man charged with impersonating officer

A 32-year-old Farmington man faces charges of impersonating an officer after getting caught in an Inkster Police Department undercover opera-

According to Inkster. Detective Anthony Abdellah, the suspect approached an undercover officer who was stationed on Michigan Avenue enry Saturday morning. He allegedly told the officer he was a sheriffs deputy, and she needed to move on. Later, he said again he was a deputy and should run her in, but she had a "cute face," according to police.

The officer asked him whether he was on duty at that time. The man was arrested after saying he was.

"We heard it all over a transmitter," Abdallah said. This was just a one-time morality undercover operation."

The suspect is free on bond pending a preliminary examination on July 5 in 22nd District Court in Inkster.

Pajama party

Great Harvest hosts readers

Great Harvest Bread Company considers itself a family busi-less. There'll be further proof of that when the downtown Farmington business hosts a "Pajama Party" from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, July 8.

Colebrity readers, including Farmington Mayor Bill Hartsock, councilwoman Mary Bush and Farmington Observer Editor Joanne Maliszowski, will don their overnight garb and read selections to kids and adults. The readings will take place from 9 a.m. to noon.
That's right. Older folks also are invited to attend the event, listen to stories and even "pin the tail on the discount," joked Great Harvest manager Jonn Wolfe.

Wolfe.
"We're all family oriented, your neighborhood bread store," said Wolfe, about why Great Harvest is hosting the event.

"We're doing everything we can to do that."

Feople who come to the store dressed in their pajamas will be able to "buy a loaf, got a loaf half-off," Wolfe said.

Other features of the day will be a milk and cookies stand, at no charge, as well as games for children and adults.

According to Wolfe, the store, which opened in 1999, will accommodate as many people as possible for the program. The new patio will be used, weather permitting.

Great Harvest Bread Company is located in the Downtown Farmington Center, on the south side of Grand River, about two blocks east of Farmington Road.

Cancer center planned in Hills

Cancer patients have a new place to visit for convenient radiation therapy in Oakland County, thanks to the generosity of West Bloomfield residents Lawrence and Idell Weisberg.

Detroit's Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute hosted coremonial groundbreaking for the new Lawrence and Idell Weisberg Cancer Treatment Center Friday, June 16. The ceremony was held at the planned site of the new center, 32005 Northwestorn Highway, Farmington Hills.

ington Hills.
The 12,000 square foot cancer treatment center, scheduled for completion in spring 2001, will

Classified Advertising

Newsroom FAX.

Photo Reprints* Reader Comment Line

HOW TO REACH US

offer chemotherapy, radiation encology and other sophisticated cancer treatments in an atmosphere designed to provide comfort and healing.

"There's nothing more frightening than hearing you have cancer," said Lawrence Weisberg.

"Everything will be designed to help remove some of that fear. It will be a very coothing place."

ing place."

The Weisborgs have pledged $2 million toward the $7 million project. Additional contributions for the center include a $1.5 million donation from the estate of Robert Grow, and $500,000 from the Sinai Guild.

> 734-591-0900 734-591-2300 .734-591-0500 .734-591-7279

734-953-2104 248-901-4716 .734-591-0500 .734-953-2040

Scrubs or a white uniform...either one may be my uniform of the day, or night. Because, at Botsford, we measure success by the ability and readiness to deliver the appropriate care and treatment for our patients at all times. And since the Botsford team is a family of skilled, concerned health care professionals, that attitude is shared and nurtured by our entire staff. The smaller size of our continuum is another asset. It allows us to treat you with the utmost personal care and sensitivity. For we believe, that a major element of successful care and treatment, is the recognition that you are an individual who needs to be touched by individuals. Success. We're always dressed for it.

Sports Nightline of the intention, to see a condition of the intention of the condition of The Farmington brief and have the Observer 33411 Grand River, Farmington, MI 48335 (On the southwest corner of Grand River and Farmington Rds.) One year (Sr. Cilizen).....$55.00 One year (Sr. Cilizen)....$44.00 One year (out of County)...$65.00 One year (out of State)...$90.00