

HILLS POLICE CITATIONS

At the Feb. 22, 2001 meeting of the Citation and Award Board, the following persons were recognized:

■ Officers Daniel Rodriguez and Paul Nicholas - Merit Citation

On Nov. 14, 2000 Officers Rodriguez and Nicholas observed a suspicious, occupied vehicle in the parking lot on the southeast corner of Middlebelt and Nine Mile. Eventually, the suspicious vehicle was driven to the side of the 7-11 where the occupants continued to case the store. These officers' observations and initiative resulted in the arrest of two armed suspects and likely prevention of a crime.

■ Officer Mark Mostek - Citation: Sergeant Alan Soderlund, Officers Scott Cronin, John Piggett, Paul Nicholas, and Michael Farley - Unit Citation

Farmington Hills and surrounding communities were plagued by a serial commercial burglar. Officers responded to a report of another of these crimes, interrupted while in progress, near Middlebelt and Northwest. Officer Mostek chased a suspect. On scene investigation resulted in an arrest for this and other burglaries.

■ Officer Eric Buckberry - Citation

While on patrol at the Grand Tulane Motel, Nov. 26, 2000, Officer Buckberry ran a LEIN check on a plate that required a vehicle stolen in Tennessee. The vehicle was stopped before it left the lot. After arresting the driver, Officer Buckberry recovered a loaded revolver and a canister of Freeze +P.

■ Officer Garin Anderson - Citation

After a rash of vandalism in the Quaker Valley Subdivision, Officer Anderson arrived to provide evidence technician support. He noticed footprints in the frosty grass and followed them to the rear patio of a house, where he recovered clothing that smelled of lighter fluid. He and other officers eventually interviewed four teenage boys, who admitted their responsibility for nearly $30,000 in damage to neighboring homes.

■ Officer Marc Haro - Citation

On Dec. 27, 2000, officers were investigating two burglaries on Haledale near Grand River. No suspect information was available.

■ Officer Haro, on patrol near Grand River and Middlebelt, stopped a suspicious vehicle and his investigation linked the driver to the burglaries.

■ Sergeant Alan Soderlund and Officer Jeffrey Maples - Citation

On Jan. 3, 2001, both officers responded to a Detroit neighborhood in an attempt to locate a Chevy Suburban, stolen from a Farmington Hills dealership. The vehicle was located a block away. Two people entered the stolen vehicle. Mobile surveillance was continued while Sergeant Soderlund contacted the Detroit Police Department for uniform support. Both officers assisted Detroit officers with the arrest for possession of the stolen auto, carrying a concealed weapon in a motor vehicle, and possession of marijuana.

■ Officers Marc Haro and Eric Amenson - Citation

On Jan. 11, 2001, officers stopped a vehicle for a defective equipment violation. A search revealed an automatic pistol in the driver's pants pocket.

■ Special Agent William O'Leary, FBI - Citation

Special Agent O'Leary worked diligently with a confidential informant to develop information on a heroin distribution ring operating from a residence in Farmington Hills. He freely shared his information with Farmington Hills and SONIC investigators to support issuance of a search warrant.

■ Officer Thomas Shivak - Citation

On Feb. 16, 2001, Officer Shivak monitored radio traffic about an indecent exposure, at the Grand River and 10 Mile Mobil station. He located a suspect behind another gas station. The state of the man's clothing indicated that another indecent exposure was about to occur, and the man was arrested.

■ Cadet Michael Cracchiolo - Letter of Appreciation

Cadet Cracchiolo assisted the department by participating in Liquor Compliance Operation No. 27, Dec. 27-28, 2000. His actions were instrumental in checking for conformity to the laws that prohibit sale of liquor to minors.

Sorrrows kids take cultural tour

Friday, March 16 wasn't a typical day at Our Lady of Sorrows School. It was a global feast for the senses, dubbed "Geography Day: Cultures Around the World."

Sixteen different countries were featured in classrooms, where students got an eyeful from parents who shared cultural experiences, insights and artifacts. In the Italy classroom, parent Natalie Szatkowski wore a Naples folklore dress and showed a video of how wine is made in that country.

Youngsters, who carried their own passports from station to station, sampled homemade tastes for lunch in the Mexico classroom.

And, in the Iraq classroom, a number of moms in full exotic wardrobe participated in a belly dance routine, persuading youngsters to get up and dance by their desks, too.

Swaying in the center of the line dance was Sorrows Principal Roberta Clemak, wearing a bright, green sash instead of the lavish outfits worn by the belly dancing moms. Clemak was having so much fun she didn't seem out of place at all.

"She deserves all the credit for this," said Clemak later, applauding the efforts of Mary Carole Haering, the parent who was instrumental in organizing the program for the culturally diverse school in Farmington.

"It's for diversity, our area is one of the most diverse in Michigan," Haering explained. "And this is to expose them (students) to other cultures. We hope to make it an annual event."

Meanwhile, Haering modestly deflected the praise to the more than 80 parents (from the Parent Teacher Guild) who helped with the event.

Among them was Nancy Campbell, a former professional dancer who brought an assortment of Polish dolls and dresses to help illustrate her talks about Poland.

She also reprised her dance routine during the event-closing assembly.

"Seeing the artifacts makes it more real for them," Campbell said, adding that the program should help youngsters pick up important knowledge about traditions of countries around the world.

Older students in the National Junior Honor Society and Student Council also participated, doing out green, shamrock cookies to guests and making signs and name tags for the food-and-fun-filled program. Haering said Busch's and Kroger donated foods.

Volunteers due for heroes' welcome

Hometown heroes in Oakland County — those who volunteer their time and effort for the betterment of their community and to help others — will be honored at an awards ceremony in June.

Nominations are now being accepted for the Hometown Heroes Awards, to be given to volunteers in six categories — seniors (65 and older), youth (18 and under), board and commissions, direct service, faith-based and business.

The awards are being sponsored jointly by Lighthouse of Oakland County, United Way of Oakland County, Deloitte & Touche, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Mirror Newspapers and Crain's Detroit Business.

Awards will be handed out at a luncheon June 14, a Thursday, at the Townsend Hotel in downtown Birmingham. Speaker for the event will be announced at a later date.

The $40 per seat ticket price for attendance at the luncheon will raise funds for A Volunteer Place, a new volunteer recruitment center to be built in Pontiac. Its purpose is to connect volunteers to programs that need the help in Oakland County.

The center is a joint project between Lighthouse, Oakland Family Services, William Beaumont Hospital, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, United Way of Oakland County, AmeriCorps at Oakland University and Hadassah Women's Zionist Organization.

A ballot to nominate volunteers accompanies this article. Deadline for nominations is April 20.

Winners will be selected by a committee of representatives of the volunteer organizations participating in the Volunteer Place.

Lighthouse is seeking corporate/sponsorships for tables at the luncheon to allow volunteers to attend who might not otherwise be able to afford to go. A table of 10 is $400. Contact Lighthouse at (248) 920-6000 to sponsor a table.
