Singers and Public Speakers Need It.

The demulcent properties of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound make it especially effective for hoarseness, tickling in throat and inflamed vocal chords. It is a valuable aid to public speakers. Chas. Boyle, the famous Irish tenor of Saginaw, Mich., says he has used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for years and would not think of filling an engagement without it. He always carries a bottle in his grip or suit case. Sold by T. H. McGee.

Fred Bowman, an aged man who lived near Farmington Junction, died on Sunday. The funeral, which was largely attended, was held Wednesday afternoon in the German church and Rev. Stange officiated.

The contractors having been let it will not be long now until Farmington is supplied with a water system. This is a public improvement that does more than almost any other one thing to make a town a desirable place to reside. It is hoped the supply may be sufficient so that it will be possible to keep the lawns and yards green during the dry, hot months.

Joe Voigt was appointed and confirmed marshal and street commissioner at the meeting of the common council Monday night and early Tuesday morning was out cleaning up the streets of the village. Farmington has a deserved reputation for keeping her streets in good order, and it is a most excellent thing for a village is always judged by the appearance of the streets and walks more than any other one thing.

Farmington's First White Girl

On March 26 Mrs. C. W. Haze died at her home in Pinckney. She was the daughter of Samuel and Lemma Mead, natives of New England, who were among the first settlers in Farmington. Mrs. Haze, or Oracy W. Mead, as she was christened, was the first white girl born in the township of Farmington, the date being July 1, 1825. In 1849 she married Dr. C. W. Haze, the son of an old neighbor and they moved to Pinckney, where he enjoyed a good practice for 45 years until he died in 1890. Mrs. Haze joined the West Farmington Baptist church at 13 years of age, afterwards transferring to Pinckney.

Methodist Church Services

M. E. services for April 14: 10:30 a. m. Preaching service. Sermon topic, "The Golden Age of the Soul."

11:30 a. m. Sunday school. 6:15 p. m. Epworth League. 6:00 p. m. Special song service.

This service opens the new series of evening services to be held during the next two months. Begin with this service and enjoy all of them right through. The first fifteen minutes are to be spent in singing some of the good, old hymns of the church. Come, and ask us to sing your favorite hymn. The members of the congregation are to suggest the hymns we sing in those first fifteen minutes. Our ladies' quartette choir is to render special selections. The young people of the Epworth League are to sing a chorus. We are also to have the pleasure of hearing Harold Jarvis sing "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," through the medium of Mr. Warner's victrola, kindly loaned for the occasion. A ten-minute talk by the pastor on "Great Hymns of the Church" will take the place of the regular sermon. We want you all to come.

The Easter Services

The Easter services in the M. E. church last Sabbath were attended by the largest congregations we have enjoyed for some time.

The decorations of the church were unique and most artistic. The pulpit rostrum and choir loft were made a veritable bower of loveliness; the decorations were boughs, so laden with pink and white peach blossoms as to be completely covered, giving what was once a bare branch, the appearance of a beautiful garland. The choir's Easter music was well rendered and greatly appreciated.

The children's service in the evening was attended by a crowded house, and the program was perhaps the most pleasing of any yet.

We guarantee our prices right. Miss Ike.

White bread is fascinating because we rarely digest it completely. Starchy foods are quite unaffected by the gastric juices which digest the meats. Their digestive ferments are obtained chiefly from the saliva in the mouth, which therefore should be thoroughly mixed with each mouthful before swallowing. But white bread is so soft and lacking in substance that we unconsciously swallow it long before it has had a fair chance to become sufficiently fermented with the digestive saliva. The result is delayed digestion (it digestion takes place at all) and at the best the starch is very apt to be converted into disfiguring, unwanted and unhealthy fat.

Good Bread

is not always made from good flour. Sometimes, quite often, in fact, the fault is with the cook. But while poor bread is often made of good flour, good bread is never made of poor flour. The best cook in the land cannot do it. She must have the right flour and we recommend and warrant our PEERLESS brand for either Bread or Pastry. Spend your money for a home product. It will pay.
