injured, and it's all part of the fun at Noise Camp.

Livonia resident Kevin Callaway is a returning noise camper. "I was scared. It is a different camp experience. ... You can't predict what's going to happen."

Campers are surrounded by Brainard's paintings, which often depict camp counselors who have suffered some evil fate, — a beehive or bucket of paint that has fallen on the counselor's head, for instance. Brainard studied art at Wayne State University. Using bright primary colors and a childlike vision, the artwork becomes an integral element in understanding Noise Camp.

The evening culminates in a performance by Princess Drag-nom. True to its noise roots, the band plays unconventional instruments. Noise Camp offers a rare opportunity to hear the sounds of the electric piano, the electric log and even the electric bear. The instruments combining elements of nature and art with electronic pick-ups, like those used on a guitar. Dion Fischer (The Go) is likely to reprise his role, playing the only perishable instrument in the bunch, the electric watermelon. "It's all fairly primitive," said Delevar.

Detroit resident Crispy Fachi-ni lives just down the street from the campsite. "It's not as scary as when I used to go camping as a kid." A native of rural Apple-gate, Mich., Fachi-ni camped deep in the woods on his parent's property. He never once encountered an electric bear. "The last camp at CPOP, I went with four of my friends, and we arrived on a scooter, a Vespa, and we made a grand entrance."

On the road

Princess Dragonom will take Noise Camp on the road after this performance. The band will set up its tent in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York. Drawing from its successful tours of Japan and Europe, the band hopes to draw interest around the United States.

As if that's not enough to get convince you that seeing Noise Camp is believing, Delevar added: "I think there's a really good chance of a UFO sighting this year."

"I like the Sword Dance best," she said. "It's difficult to do, I like the challenge. The dances all have a story behind them. I like the bagpipes, how they sound. It makes me feel like I'm dancing for Scotland."

Caldin Campbell of Plymouth and Holly Dorger of Bloomfield Hills competed in the U.S. Highland Dance national championships in Long Beach, Calif., and will also compete in at Greenmead.

Other local dancers scheduled to participate in competition at Greenmead are Kelly Cook of Franklin; Lindsay Corbets, Christina Hugo, and Allison Gibson of Rochester Hills, Erin Welsh of Plymouth, Elizabeth Maylen of Birmingham, and Anna Falkowski of Livonia.

If you're Scottish, Craig said the games are the perfect place to learn more about your heritage. "If you're not Scottish, you can come and have a good time," he said. "There's a lot to see — the athletic events, dancing, it's a nice day."

Susie and Bill Baker of Bloomfield Hills joined the St. Andrew's Society after visiting Scotland in 1997.

"We loved it so much we wanted to get involved," Susie said. "We're part of the melting pot, but chose to celebrate our Scottish roots."

Family entertainment

Susie is chairing the Ceilidh on the Field on Friday, Aug. 3, a celebration of Scottish music and food. Bill is field chairman for the games.

"We have a bunch of entertainers, everything from fiddle to Celtic rock. We have a gal who will sing in Gaelic," she said.

Ceilidh admission includes a Scottish dinner consisting of a meat pie, haggis and soft drink. Desserts are extra.

"It's just real good family entertainment," said Susie about the games. "There's something for everyone — food, pipe bands, dancing, vendors, including kilt makers, and children's activities."

Kurt Paulie of Westland is participating in the heavy athletics competition with his brother, Jason. The competition includes tests of strength including a 16-pound hammer toss, 25-pound weight for distance, and the popular cabre toss.

Liam Neary of Redford is in charge of clans at the games. David Martin of Livonia is Pipe Major.

Event proceeds benefit a variety of local groups including the Salvation Army, Habitat for Humanity, Detroit Rescue Mission, and Meals on Wheels.

At least 30-40 clans will be represented at the festival, maybe you'll find yours.

You can even kick up your heels and join the mass line Highland dancing on the field after all the bands parade at noon.

Singles can mingle at DSO event

It could be the perfect place to meet a friend or perhaps a wonderful event to enjoy your own freedom.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra is hosting two events for single people at Meadow Brook where professionals can meet and mingle over picnic dinners and classical Overtures.

This summer's events especially for single professionals ages 25-45 feature Vive La France on July 27 and Tchaikovsky Spectacular on Aug. 11.

The picnic dinners begin at 6 p.m. and concerts are at 8 p.m. and include pavilion seating. Tickets for all are $45 which includes dinner.

■ This summer's events especially for single professionals ages 25-45 feature Vive La France on July 27 and Tchaikovsky Spectacular on Aug. 11.

Vive La France will be led by French conductor Emmanuel Villaume and followed by fireworks. Tchaikovsky Spectacular will feature an all-Tchaikovsky evening including the passionate 1812 Overture and concludes with fireworks.

Both events are presented in partnership with Metropolitan Single Professionals.

Other shows

On Saturday, July 28, Villaume will conduct the DSO in an all-Beethoven program, including Beethoven's intense Symphony No. 5 and Piano Concerto No. 4 featuring soloist Andrew von Oeyen. The Beethoven event is one of the most popular at Meadow Brook.

On Sunday, Broadway tunes will be performed at 7:30 p.m. under the direction of guest conductor Sue Anderson.
