State Fair School

When Secretary and Manager J. E. Hannou proposed the plan of the State Fair School and the Michigan State Agricultural society through its president, Thos. E. Newton, Detroit, and its board of directors accepted the idea and started preparation to conduct the most novel educational project of modern times, little did they appreciate the real interest that would be taken in the event. From every portion of the state, letters have poured into the office of the State Fair in the Bowles Bldg., Detroit, and school commissioners of every county, school superintendents in hundreds of townships, fathers and mothers of ambitious sons, and men interested in every agricultural branch, and members of the state agricultural organization, have commended the idea. Many have shown their interest substantially, having offered prizes for a contest among the boys who take the course of learning, and who will be asked to write an essay covering the subjects taught at the Boys' State Fair School in the regular courses of studying, embodying the practical features of agriculture, stock raising and kindred subjects. These essays will be passed upon by the committee selected for the purpose and the winning boy will receive credit for $350 on the price of an R-C-H automobile, valued at $700.

That boy will have that credit and the opportunity to try again the next year, and if successful, will have the car without cost, the credit however remaining for all time on the purchase of an R-C-H car. George C. Hupp, donor of this valuable prize, is a farmer and stock raiser with a 200 acre farm one mile from Birmingham, where dairying and the raising of Berkshire hogs and Guernsey cattle are his specialties. Interested with him are his brothers, R. C. Hupp, president of the R-C-H Corporation and L. C. Hupp. The interest of the Messrs. Hupp in the Boys' State Fair school has also led G. C. Hupp to offer two pure bred Berkshire hogs as another prize, and Mrs. Thomas E. Newton of the state fair has offered $50 in gold and C. A. Taylor, Suft of live stock, has offered two thoroughbred Hampshire lambs. Other prizes including seeds, agricultural implements and live stock have been promised until the boys will have every opportunity, not only to learn the science of successful farming, but also have the chance to take back with them besides the education, live stock and seed sufficient to start themselves in business.

These boys will be able to take an examination at home, based upon 8th grade questions, and in each county the three standing highest will meet the committee appointed and will then be given a thorough examination of their fitness to become scholars at this important school. The examination in school will count for 50 per cent and fitness of the pupil 50 per cent more, and the winning scholar will have an alternate who will make the trip to the state fair with all expenses paid proving the actual winner is unable to go. The boys will have the time of their lives at the fair, being campers at the state fair grounds under military discipline. They will have to keep their camp neat and clean, look after their own cleanliness and will then be taken in hand by assistant secretaries who will conduct them in squads of ten, through the fair, explaining to them every imaginable point in regard to agriculture and showing them through the stock barns and into the corals where the stock is judged. Here the judges will give them a insight into the finer points of the animals and into the reason for awarding the prizes.

The boys will see all the sights including the horse races, the automobile races, the fireworks, the automobile show and the City of Detroit, and every boy will return home with a fund of information that never could be obtained at a home school. He will have an opportunity to return each year until he is 18 years of age, providing he passes the examination every year.

Were ever the boys of the state given such an opportunity? His story answers—no.

Michelin Quick Detachable Clincher Tire

Tire fitting is not always the easy task motorists could wish, but the Michelin Tire company has minimized the difficulty with the introduction of its 1912 Quick Detachable Clincher. An important advantage of this tire is that it is very easy to put on any Quick Detachable rim. It eliminates the necessity for laborious fitting. It simply drops on the rim without forcing and without the use of tools.

Another feature is the elimination of the inside envelope flap or tube protector, which has usually been considered a necessary evil. The absence of protectors simplifies the fitting of inner tubes, reducing the danger of pinching, as well as the labor formerly involved when protectors were necessary.

The Michelin Quick Detachable Clincher is shaped flat and round. The tread is broad and flat. The side walls are properly proportioned to assume maximum durability without sacrificing resiliency.

It is believed by the Michelin company that car owners will appreciate a tire of advanced design that at once removes several of the old vexations of motoring.
