Coming Home
For most people, the thought of a homecoming is filled with positive emotions. We usually associate home with safety, comfort and a loving family. It is no wonder that Homer's epic poem, The Odyssey, has been told and retold for thousands of years, because it is the story of a man who struggles against incredible odds for ten years to find his way home. Nearly everyone can empathize with a man who struggles so valiantly to reunite with his wife and son. Likewise, much of the Old Testament is concerned with the "Israelites" attempt to return to their homeland. Their enslavement by the Egyptians, and later by the Babylonians, as well as their sojourn in the desert, kept them from the "land of milk and honey" they considered home. Although it may not always be possible to return to the physical home we grew up in, it is possible to return there in the quiet recesses of our mind. When we feel like coming home but just can't seem to get there, physically or mentally, we should remember that our ultimate home is with God. Our spirits were created in Heaven and will one day return there to be at home with all those who have gone before us.
R.S.V. Proverbs 27:8
Like a bird that strays from its nest, is a man who strays from his home.
