whatever that takes."
Not all of the Plymouth Symphony's Aventuras Latinas concert on Nov. 10 is so heavy with meaning. Canton pianist Dimas Caraballo will perform Cuban composer Ernesto Lecuona's Rapsodia Negra for Piano and Orchestra and Malaguena. Born in Cuba. Caraballo grew up with a love for Latin American music.

Ho carned a double master degree in piano pedagogy and performance from the University of Michigan School of Music.

*Ropsodia Negra for Piano and Orchestra was used in Hollywood movies," said Caraballo who teaches piano in Canton. Caraballo is also a part time faculty member in the dance department at Wayne State University.

"It's very rhythmic and sounds a little bit like George Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue, the same grandour. Malaguena is very famous and from a Spanish Suito. It's the most recognized piece of Erneste who's considered the most famous Cuban composer."

Sounds like Aventuras Latinas is going to be a moving evening in more ways than one.
