

Holiday Brass concert returns to Costick Center on Dec. 11

The Cultural Arts Division of the Farmington Hills Special Services Department presents "Holiday Brass", by the renowned Detroit Chamber Winds and Strings at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 11, at the Costick Center, 28600 W. 11

Mile, east of Middlebelt. Tickets are available at the door or in advance at the Costick Center. They're $16 for adults, $12 for senior citizens, and $10 for students. The concert will continue a tradition begun last year of welcoming the holiday season with the area's most talented musicians, offering a new selection of classical and traditional holiday favorites. The intimacy of its setting, the warmth of the artists, and the quality of the performers led enthusiastic concert-goers to proclaim last year that they felt like they had "part of the DSO in our own living rooms."

BBC Music Magazine calls Detroit Chamber Winds "the lifeblood of local chamber music".

Detroit Chamber Winds and Strings is composed of members of both the Detroit Symphony and the Michigan Opera Theatre Orchestras, who rehearse as an artistic cooperative, with each member participating in the musical decision-making.

The ensemble has worked with many fine guest artists, including James Tocco, Julius Baker, Ruth Laredo and Peter Sparling, and has presented the world premier compositions of William Thomas McKinley, David Jer, John Thow, Jonathan Berger, Eric Ewazen, James Slater, John Morrison, and Michael Daugherty. Critical reviews have been outstanding as the group has performed in Michigan and throughout the United States. Their debut in the Carnegie Recital Hall received acclaim in

The New York Times. For more information, call the Farmington Hills Cultural Arts Division, at (248) 473-1856.
