

Musicale offers Renaissance era program

Join the Farmington Musicals on Wednesday afternoon as members travel back to the Renaissance era with a holiday program called Here We Come A Wassailing.

It begins at 1 p.m. Dec. 5 at Orchard United Methodist Church, 30450 Farmington Road between 13 Mile and 14 Mile, in Farmington Hills.

Charlene Berry of the Dulcimer Evante will provide pre-concert music. Wanda Dodsworth will narrate the program.

Laurel Erickson will play recorder. Dressed in period costume as king and queen will be Carolyn and Howard Caylor. Connie Randall will be lady-in-waiting and pages will be William Clogg and Wilbur Wood.

There will be a chorus under the direction of Judith Roger. Amy Dolan-Malaney, soprano, will sing solo.

A Madrigal ensemble will perform and there will be an audience sing-along.

Guests will be able to enjoy a taste of merry old England - hot wassail and tea will be served along with fruitcake, pudding and scones.

There is a $3 charge. For more information, call Betty Walker at 661-0707.

Musical members were an integral part of the Longacre House Holiday Concert Nov. 25.

Big Enough to bring you a world of medical resources...

"I was treated for kidney failure, bone and joint problems and cancer. The doctors and staff at Huron Valley-Sinai Hospital formed a fantastic team to take care of me."

A linear accelerator is used to accurately administer radiation doses with less damage to the healthy surrounding areas.

Small enough to take care of you personally.

For Thomas Weischen, convenient access to advanced technology and expertise is one of the reasons he wouldn't go anywhere but Huron Valley-Sinai Hospital. But he also appreciates the compassionate care he has received from the staff, including the specialists at the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute.

KARMANOS CANCER INSTITUTE

The center is just one of the specialty services offered by Huron Valley-Sinai Hospital, which delivers cutting-edge treatment with a personal touch. The hospital's extensive capabilities include state-of-the-art technology such as the linear accelerator used in Weischen's treatment, which delivers extremely precise radiation therapy. The hospital also offers magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) and stereotactic breast biopsy capabilities, as well as CT scan services - including a spiral CT scan, which utilizes the latest technology to provide ultra-fast results and a superior level of detail.
