A Mother's Influence
The Bible tells us that we should do what our father tells us and never forget what our mother has taught us (Proverbs 6:20). This is an interesting passage because it seems to tell us that we learn the observance of laws from our fathers, but it is our mothers' patience, understanding and teaching that influence our good qualities. Mothers seem to possess that special something which is passed on to their children that makes them better individuals. When children hurt themselves, they instinctively call out to their mothers. Even when watching sports on television, as the camera zooms in on the players, we often hear them say "Hi Mom!" I can't ever recall hearing a player say "Hi Dad!" although I'm sure their fathers mean a great deal to them. Mothers are the "heart" of the home. Their love is unconditional and they ask for nothing in return for all that they do for their families. Jesus had a great love for His mother, and He wants us in turn to love, respect and honor ours.
Let your father and mother be proud of you; give your mother that happiness.
Good News Bible Proverbs 23:25
