

Word of the day: Guests at this year's Art on the Grand will be treated to a visit from Groucho Marx as part of the festivities.

In my family, learning is everything.

Books don't just enlighten. They empower. Our children are growing up knowing this. A good education is one of the most important things we can give them. And we will, with the help of U.S. Savings Bonds.

Through the Payroll Savings Plan, we put aside something with every payday. And little by little, it will add up to college for our children.

U.S. Savings Bonds helped my parents put me through college. And next year, it's Michelle's turn. Sure, Savings Bonds have important to our past, but they'll be even more important to our future. That's what makes our investment so valuable.

Ask your employer or banker about saving with U.S. Savings Bonds. For all the right reasons.

Art on the Grand returns to Founders Festival for 2002

Art on the Grand will return to the Farmington Area Founders Festival July 18-20 to Memorial Park, located on Grand River Avenue in downtown Farmington.

The initial fair last year was a surprising success, and received enthusiastic responses from visitors and artists alike.

Art on the Grand is a "little gem of an art fair" featuring the works of artists from around the country in the form of paintings, wood, glass, jewelry, pen and ink and metal. The fair also offers interactive art experiences and live music with a schedule full of variety and style for all tastes.

Along with music on the stage, visitors will be met by some characters wandering the grounds, including "Groucho Marx" or "Maurice the Art Critic." Children will be able to have their faces painted for free, as well as see "balloon art" on Friday and Saturday. They can stop by the free Children's Art Tent and make a take-home creation, have their picture taken in a "masterpiece" face board, and become a part of painting, or wonder at a "live" sculpture.

Tents featuring artwork from high school artists and the Farmington Artist Club will also be open.

Art on the Grand is presented by the City of Farmington Hills Special Services Department with support from the Farmington Area Art Commission, Michigan Council for Art and Cultural Affairs and the Farmington Community Art Council.
