Lanigan thanks volunteer parents, businesses for school support

A few good people, and the businesses they represent, recently opened their hearts and services to students at Lanigan Elementary School.

Last year, school officials discovered that students would be in need of two items: portfolios that would allow students to accumulate and catalog their best work throughout their elementary career; and fire-proof bulletin boards where teachers could showcase students' best work in hallways and in classrooms.

The PTA researched availability, quality and price for these items and realized that these items were way beyond its budget.

Rick Krieger from Staples (13 Mile & Orchard Lake) helped purchase high-quality portfolios at a reasonable price, and students now have durable portfolios that will last their entire six years at Lanigan Elementary School.

In the school's hallways and classrooms, new blue bulletin boards display students' art and classroom work. This was made possible with the generosity of Mike Letwinick from Suburban Automotive in Farmington Hills, John Teran from Larson Fabrics, Inc. in Livonia, and Daniel Stultz from H.A. Smith Lumber and Hardware Company in Farmington Hills. These three men worked to create the stunning bulletin boards at the lowest price possible.

In addition, dedicated parents spent countless hours this summer assembling and creating the bulletin boards.

As a gesture of appreciation, the four donors have been invited to the school's Fall Fun Fair on Saturday, Nov. 2. The event begins with a parade from Farmington Community School to Lanigan Elementary School at 10:15 a.m. The Fall Fun Fair is from 11 a.m.-3 p.m.
