Drug Use Is Program Topic

The DACCW Family Affairs Committee on Children and Youth is offering a program of vital interest to the parents of teen-age children from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., today on the second floor of the Gabriel Richard Bldg., 305 Michigan, Detroit.

Timothy Dyer, principal of Adlai E. Stevenson Junior High School, Wayne, and Dr. Gary Cohen, chief resident of Lafayette Clinic, Detroit, are speaking on "Youth, Drug Abuse and Use." Ample time has been allowed for questions, answers and discussion.

Quakers, a name frequently used to describe members of the Religious Society of Friends, was first applied to the society in 1650 because of their so-called habit of "trembling at the word of God."

Retired Pastor Deanery Meet Planned On Organization Changes

Appointment of Dr. Ralph H. Read, retired pastor of North Congregational Church, Southfield, to the faculty of Lawrence Institute of Technology is announced by President Wayne H. Buehl.

As professor of social sciences, Dr. Read will teach philosophy and psychology full-time beginning Dec. 4, the start of the winter term. Since September, he has been teaching part-time in evening college.

He was pastor of North Congregational Church from 1955 until his retirement on the first of this month.

Dr. Read, 65, earned a bachelor of arts degree from Grinnell College in 1925; a bachelor of divinity degree from Union Theological Seminary in 1928; and was awarded a doctor of divinity degree from Olivet College in 1959.

The Detroit Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women of Wayne Western deanery will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 21, in St. Norbert parish hall, Inkster.

The meeting will cover structural re-organization of the DACCW and reports on the recent national convention.

Three convention reports will be presented to the membership on the following topics: "Woman's Responsibility Through Legislation," "Psychological Aspects of Marriage," and "The Effects of Drugs on the Unborn Child."

St. Norbert's is located one block north of Avondale on Inkster Road.

Youth Dialogue Planned In New Temple Series

Valparaiso Guild To Hold Musicale

The Detroit-West Chapter of the Valparaiso University Guild will present its annual musicale in the Grace Lutheran Church, 25630 Grand River, on Sunday, Nov. 24, at 7:30 p.m.

This year the musical feature will be the General Motets. A coffee hour will follow the program.

"Youth-A Dialogue" will be the topic for the second in an adult education series conducted by the New Temple.

John Morley, a student at Michigan State University, will lead the dialogue, scheduled at 8 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 24, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Green, of Bloomfield Hills.

Those interested in attending may call the New Temple office, 646-5534.

The series, under the general title "Youth Power" began Oct. 29 with a discussion, "A Psychoanalytic View of Adolescence."

Future sessions include a Jan. 21 talk by Judge Burton R. Shafin on "Youth and the Law," a Feb. 18 discussion on "Challenge for the Public High School," led by Roger Garvelink, principal of West Bloomfield High School, and Dr. Walter Ambusher, professor of Education and clinical psychology, Wayne State University, speaking on "The College Scene" March 18.

Mrs. Ira Anes, chairman of adult education for the New Temple, is in charge of the series.

The New Temple youth group will conduct worship services on Friday, Nov. 29, at 8:30 p.m. Discussion topic for the evening, to be led by Rabbi Ernest J. Conrad, is "Burying Hatchet," an analysis of the recent strife between the teacher's union in New York and Black Nationalists.

Worship services are held at the Birmingham Unitarian Church, Lone Pine and Woodward, Bloomfield Hills.

"Davy Jones' Locker"

The term, "Davy Jones' locker," is used to mean the grave of those who die at sea. Davy Jones is a term for the spirit of the sea, usually an evil spirit.

Catholic Schools In Area Lose 12,000 Students In '968

Among the reasons why public schools must press for more money from taxpayers is because they must educate more than 12,000 students lost from Catholic schools during the past year, according to the Rev. Father John B. Zwiers, archbishop of Detroit superintendent of schools.

"That makes over 30,000 since the 1964-65 school year who have left our tax-free schools," he said. "Like all schools, public and private, ours are caught in a financial bind. Many Catholic parents just cannot meet necessary tuition increases and also pay increased taxes for support of public schools."

"Unless we find some way to tide our schools over, the emergency, Michigan taxpayers are going to be charged still steeper school taxes, or else see their children disadvantaged as the quality of public education is diluted by the addition of former Catholic school students."

A recent Catholic pupil census revealed 11,085 fewer elementary grade pupils and 1,250 fewer high school students than a year ago. In the 1964-65 year Catholic schools had 203,389 students. The following year there was a 2,000 drop followed by 8,000 decreases in each of the next two years, leading up to the 12,335 falling-off that now leaves total enrollment at only 173,009.

"It might appear to some that we are deliberately phasing out our Catholic schools," Father Zwiers said. "This is untrue—absolutely untrue. We never close a school except as a last, desperate resort. We believe our educational system holds precious values not only for Catholics but for all of Michigan, too."

"FOR THE STATE, Catholic schools serve as a yardstick for comparing costs and quality of instruction in public schools. They keep educational standards high in that way. It is also obvious that Michigan's high educational standards could not have prevailed in any event if school tax money had to be spread over an enrollment swelled by the addition of children now being educated in Lutheran, Catholic and other schools sponsored by religious bodies."

"Catholic parents know the comfort brought by moral training, and gladly pay to get it for their children, as long as they are able to. It is only the present stress in the social strain on all schools, Catholic as well as public, that has seen them trying to get some assistance to meet the staggering educational costs of today."

Father Zwiers said that many parents are not aware of the cost levels education has reached recently. "The Detroit public school system is not a model of frugality," he said, "but even if you pay $425 to educate each pupil in grade school, $580 for each junior high student and over $800 for each high school student, many suburbs spend considerably more."

FATHER ZWERS pointed out those figures indicate why absorption of private school pupils by public schools is impractical. Even if the money were available for teaching, he pointed out, there would be no place for 173,009 pupils to go, since existing public schools, often antiquated, tend to be crowded after having absorbed only 30,000 pupils who formerly attended Catholic schools.

"Another seeming solution which will not work is shared time—having Catholic school youngsters get some of their academic training from nearby public schools," he said. "This is fine in limited areas, where conditions are just right, but there aren't enough extra facilities to share if that is thought of as a general solution. The need is too great, and public schools are generally already taxed to capacity."

"The eventual answer seems fairly obvious. The diminishing private schools will have to go on doing the best they can until Michigan finally becomes aware that it has a good thing going for it in systems that in the past did not get a dollar of taxpayers' money for educating hundreds of thousands of youngsters and which are in trouble now only because inflation has put school systems in financial straits, private as well as public. In good time the state will see its way free to help private schools a bit—hopefully before the quality of all education is permanently undermined."
