Unmerited Grace

There are many meanings of the word "grace." Perhaps the most significant is that grace means "mercy or forgiveness." To be precise, it means to forgive someone who has no right to expect our forgiveness. To grant clemency or show mercy to someone who has wronged us and has every expectation of being justly punished is to exemplify grace. In many ways, we live in a graceless age where people not only seem to look for someone to blame and hold accountable for their problems, but even blame others for problems which they have created themselves. Granted, there are some who deserve to be punished for their crimes, but in the daily encounters we have with others, we would do well to be more gracious. Forgiving the person who cuts in front of us at the grocery store or on the highway will probably improve both of our days. With respect to more significant wrongs, showing grace can literally transform our life and the life of the person who is forgiven. God has manifested His grace in creating us, and even more so in forgiving our sins, which are endless. Emulate the Lord and pass this cosmic favor on to fellow human beings. Sometimes, we may need to forgive ourselves as well. Show grace and mercy to the people in your life, including yourself.

To the Lord our God belong mercies and forgiveness... K.J.V. Daniel 9:9
