

TYNDALE

he's not looking at different schools just yet. He wants to be a youth minister.

"I believe God is going to provide for us," he said. For student Regina Henegar, the school has been a haven. "I love being here," she said. As far as the school's future is concerned, she said, "I believe in God."

The nondenominational college's most popular bachelor degrees are in psychology, Christian studies and youth studies.

In February 2001, the college received a $1.48 million federal grant to help build a new science center. In 1999, enrollment was around 650 students compared to today's figure of approximately 450.

No new building projects have taken place from the 1999 capital improvements fundraiser. The federal grant has not been used; it expires in three years.

John Young, vice president at Walsh College, a private business college with a campus in Novi, said Tyndale's situation is "a sad thing to see happen. It does point out that being a small school in the metro area is tough in a competitive market."

Young said the winter semester at Walsh was also down student-wise, but spring enrollment is "off to a great start."

Part of the issue is state tuition grants have been cut recently, forcing students to scramble for tuition money, Young said.

He added Walsh would be willing to work with Tyndale students to transfer their credits if the college does close.

Mulligan said officials are seeking mergers with other colleges that would match Tyndale's Christian-based teachings, but said she couldn't list possible suitors.

Humanitarian Club cabaret night raises funds

BY SUE BUCK
STAFF WRITER

The North Farmington Humanitarian Club will host a cabaret 6-8 p.m. Thursday, March 20, at Max and Erma's Restaurant located on 14 Mile and Orchard Lake Roads.

The cabaret will raise seed money for the annual All Night Happening, an eight-hour lock-in for North Farmington students that raises funds for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

"This is the fourth year of the All Night Happening," said senior Angela Hanks. "Over the past three years, the Humanitarian Club raised over $30,000 for MDA and we hope to continue that incredible success this year."

The Humanitarian Club was recognized last fall, as members were asked to appear on the Jerry Lewis Telethon to present the $12,066 check raised at the 2002 Happening.

The event features a volleyball marathon, a disc jockey, bands from North, games and activities, an open pool, a moonwalk and bungee run.

The Humanitarian Club is the community service club of North Farmington, Hanks said.

"It has been in existence for several years, and attracts more than 50 students to its weekly meetings," she said. "The club works on various community projects throughout the year. The MDA fund-raiser is the largest event the club sponsors."

This year, organizing of the fund-raiser has been particularly difficult for the club, Hanks said. "With an uncertain economy and political outlook, donations of food, goods and services is down from previous years."

Anyone who would like to help can make donations, payable to The North Farmington Humanitarian Club. Donations may be sent to North Farmington High School, 32900 W. 13 Mile, Farmington Hills MI 48334, attention Kathleen Mainsner. Mainsner may also be contacted at (248) 426-4787.

Also helping with the event are juniors Jessica Sapick and Julie Kaplan.

FCB marches into spring at Harrison

The Farmington Community Band, under the direction of Paul Barber, will introduce spring to the Farmington area with spirit and fanfare with a concert composed entirely of marches.

The "Marching Into Spring" concert, presented at 3 p.m. on March 23 at Harrison High, won't be limited to the customary toe tapping variety of the march. The 65-member concert band will showcase the rich heritage of nationalist marches represented by a variety of cultures including British, Spanish, Russian and American.

The international mixture of music for the concert will include "Stars and Bars", "Radetzky's March", "MacNamara's Band", "March of the Spanish Soldier", "March Slave" and many others.

The Farmington Community Band is an organization of musicians of all ages and backgrounds, from high school students to senior citizens who enjoy sharing a wide variety of musical experiences with the community. In that spirit, there is no admission fee for this or any FCB concert; however, donations help ensure the future of the band and are gratefully accepted.

Hills to host Beautification Council meeting

The Farmington Hills Beautification Commission will host the quarterly meeting of the Beautification Council of Southeast Michigan from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. March 20 at the Costick Activities Center on 11 Mile between Middlebelt and Inkster.

BCSEM includes beautification commission members from communities in Wayne, Oakland, and Macomb counties who gather quarterly to share successful beautification projects.

Farmington and Farmington Hills are charter members of the group, which is celebrating its 40th anniversary.

The public is welcome to attend the event that will include speakers William Costick, former Farmington city manager; Steve Brock, Farmington Hills city manager; and Sue Grissim, landscape architect. They will discuss the joint effort between the Farmington Hills Beautification Commission and the Farmington Public Schools, to beautify school properties.

Various city departments will also display highlighting services the city of Farmington Hills provides its citizens.

Tickets are $12 and must be purchased by March 13.
