average last season.

Chrissy Dwyer also was a second-team, all-area selection, but she decided not to play this year. Farmington would have been that much stronger with her in the lineup, according to Sopha.

Junior Emily Laird, who averaged 48.2 strokes and was the team's most improved playcr, is another key returnee, as are fellow juniors Angela and Maria Palaian.

"Andrea has been hitting the ball so well and consistently." Sopha said. "She was just chomping at the bit to get started.

"Brittany has gotten stronger. She's a ting girl but has built up her conditioning and has come back so much stronger.

Other new additions are sophomores Lindsey Dalter and Stephanie Lash and freshmen Allie Santacreu, Bonnie Smith and Jordann Burns. Farmington also was third in its regional and 12th at the state meet. Qualifying again could be difficult since there are so many good teams in the same regional with Farmington this year. "It's really going to take sometough play, Sopha said. "Some girls will have to step up and play their best if were going to qualify this year."
