Scientific Feeding

Today thousands of farmers are feeding livestock better and more profitable than ever before because the good feeding principles which the agricultural colleges are teaching are being followed by the high grade feed manufacturers.

As a result of feeding according to correct scientific principles, cows are lasting longer, giving more milk, and producing stronger and livelier calves; hens are laying when eggs are high; and beef, pork, and poultry are being grown at a low cost.

These principles are being carried out by the manufacturers of

Our coal provides that genuine, fullsome. our coal provides that genuine, funisome, pervading heat. This is really important and appreciated when the bitter winter blasts come. This coal assures also the utmost economy, because it's "all heat"—burns to a clean, white ash; it's sootless, smokeless, lasting and long-burning.
