Out Of 5' Is Once Again Proved Right

Four out of five—the percentage seems to hold good in more ways than one. Commissioner Clarence Bickling asked Wednesday morning if he was included in the two commissioners mentioned in last week's Enterprise as declining to run for re-election. Answered in the negative, he said, "Well, you can count me in, too, the same way." Including Mayor Butterfield, this makes four out of five of Farmington's Commissioners whose terms expire, declaring they will not run again.
