Why the new Ford is such a strong and sturdy car

THE manner in which electric welding has been developed and used in the new Ford is in itself one of the wonder tales of industry.

Without increasing weight, it permits the use of steel forgings instead of stampings or castings, with resulting increase in strength and simplicity. One-piece units are used where formerly several separate parts were bolted or riveted together.

This has an important bearing on reliability and good performance and is also one of the reasons why the new Ford is such a strong and sturdy car. More steel forgings, in fact, are used in the new Ford than in almost any other car, regardless of price. In every least little detail, you are buying real quality when you buy the new Ford.

Base Line Cemetery

Has Colorful History

about three years ago. Henry Ford asked Simon Johnston where the old settlers, who used to frequent the Inn, are buried. Mr. Johnston told Mr. Ford that they rest in Clarenceville Cemetery. The manufacturer asked if the cemetery is well-maintained, and Mr. Johnston said that it was except for the handicap of lack of water. "I'll provide it," answered Mr. Ford immediately—and now the pipelines make it possible to reach every part of the cemetery with a 25-foot hose.

Not the least interesting events in the cemetery's history have been the annual banquets given for many years by Mrs. Elmer Doheny for the benefit of the cemetery association. The banquet this year will be held next Thursday, June 13, at the Doheny home on Base Line road.

Ford Orchestra Coming
A feature of the dinner will be music by Henry Ford's old-time orchestra. Everyone is cordially invited to attend the dinner, which will be served at 5 p. m.

REQUIRE LARGE BOXES

The Postoffice department has advised only one month will remain during which the small size rural boxes can be erected. Beginning July 1, 1929, only the large size box can be used. The small boxes now in use can be continued as long as they are serviceable, after which the large box must replace it.

GLEN OAKS IS OPENED
