

Church Picnic Planned

Plans are well progressed for an All-Methodist family picnic supper on the Recreation grounds of the Rouge Park Wednesday evening, July 31. The recreation grounds are reached by driving down Telegraph road to Bonaparte avenue, and turning left under the bridge and then taking the first winding road to the right.

The supper is to be pot luck and all are invited.

No More Shabby Shoes

Shabby shoes can spoil an otherwise good-looking outfit, yet it costs very little to smarten them up. And the kind of leather and workmanship we put into repairing them makes it real economy.

Let us straighten the heels and put on new soles.

Artistic Series Of Advertisements Begun

An unusual series of advertisements, exceptional for their artistic qualities, is begun in this issue of the Enterprise, by Spencer J. Heeney, Farmington funeral director. The advertisements include a number of reproductions of sculptures from one of the most famous cemeteries in the world, the Composita Staglieno, in Genoa, Italy.

On the tombs of the Composita Staglieno appear a group of sculptural masterpieces wrought by noted sculptors.

They portray various phases of life and death, such as "The Angel taking in the sail of the boat which has happily eged 'he' anturous voyage of life," a bereft husband leaning on the departed wife's grave, a widow mourning for her husband, Father Time, and others. The representation of the Angel taking in the sail of the boat of life appears this week.

The series was obtained and prepared for Mr. Heeney by the Enterprise with the co-operation of Meyer Both Company of Chicago.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR VIOLIN TEACHER

Word has been received here of the death of Glen Scraee, a former violin teacher in Farmington, who passed away at his home in Milford on Monday. Mr. Scraee was well known to a number of Farmington residents. The deceased was a cousin of Clarence Bicking of Farmington. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at Milford. Mr. and Mrs. Bicking were among those attending.

The new Oakland All-American Six, since its introduction, has been popularly voted as one of the most distinctive motor car style creations of the year.

This is one of a series of sculptural masterpieces appearing on the tombs of the Composita Staglieno (Cemetery) in Genoa, Italy. It denotes the Angel taking in the sail of the boat which has happily ended the dancer's voyage of life.

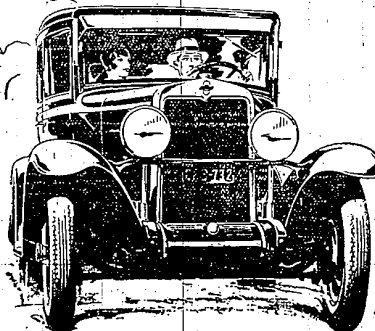

A SYMPATHETIC EFFICIENT SERVICE

At the journey's end, when the loved one has departed, you will find a peaceful service of beauty and sympathy which will prove consoling to those bereft. Either at church or your home, you will find the last rites, conducted by us, simple, dignified, beautiful.
