A little story is told by the Oakland County Republican committee in this paper this week that should be read by every farmer. It is a comparison of the prices that they got for the products of their farms 18 years ago under Democratic rule and the prices for the same commodities that prevail today. Can the farmer afford to take a chance on a change at this time? Think it over.

Memory Day
Monday, Sept. 30, was Memory Day—a day set apart to be devoted to the care of the homes of the dead. A walk through the village cemeteries, with a view of observing present condition and to taking note of what has been accomplished, as well as of future needs, was a source of gratification. Whether one stands at the entrance gates and looks up the long slope to where the crest of the hill meets the sky line, or stands on the crest and looks back over the way he has come, one rarely sees, within a limited space, a more lovely picture of hill and dale than nature has given us in beautiful Oakwood. So neatly have the grounds been kept that there was little attention needed on this more than any other day of the year.

An interview with some of the members of the Cemetery Improvement association, who have been connected with the active work, brought out a number of points which do not appear in the annual reports, but which have a very vital bearing on the work in hand and upon its apparent success as compared with larger towns or with corporations having abundant capital. Their first effort was directed toward securing the services of a competent engineer to lay out the new addition; it was rather stunning to learn that $5,000 would be needed to prosecute the work, as a starter.

The number of dinners required to amass that amount of money was appalling and life was too short, so they went ahead with such means as they had. The association, however, has been favored with valuable advice from sources which, but for a kindly interest in their efforts, would have been expensive; notably from the Michigan agricultural college and from the engineer who laid out the grounds at Grand Lawn. The team work, the seeding and all the manual labor has been done with a heart interest in the work and so well done that, taking everything into consideration, the losses in shrubbery and plants have been comparatively small. The seeding, by the way, is not the ordinary "clover and timothy" nor any meadow grass such as is used on farms, but is a mixture of lawn grasses carefully prepared from a formula proven by experience to endure climatic vicissitudes; there are grasses which do well in the shade and others which have long roots, penetrating deeply into the soil, enabling them to withstand drouth, and plenty of the ever delightful white clover. The present season has been so favorable that so far as the writer examined, it has attained a luxuriant growth, and there is still seed reserved to reseed any places where it may be needed.

Two or three ladies, members of the association, have set beds of shrubbery and flowers, furnishing the plants and maintaining the beds at their own expense, and, above all, the association members and the public generally have liberally assisted with their contributions and patronage on the occasion of annual dinners and other entertainments.

But it hasn't all been clear sailing. Like every one else they have been seriously handicapped by the cost and scarcity of labor. It has been deemed a privilege to get what they have had at the price. After securing the means, getting the nursery stock, paying the freight and with difficulty getting help to do the planting to have a drouth settle down for months and threaten to kill everything was trying in the extreme. The very dry summers of 1910 and '11 were almost ruinous in the Quaker cemetery, where the light sandy soil could give little nourishment to young plants and where water was absolutely unavailable; nevertheless another effort will be made to plant shrubbery and to improve the fencing at the sides and back of the grounds. The association realizes that though their capital is comparatively small and must be gathered from year to year, they have all the time there is and perseverance will work wonders.

Redford
Rev. Evans is attending the Michigan Synod this week which meets at Saginaw. A. M. Bosworth was the elder delegated by the board of session to represent the church at the same meeting.

There will be a big "Bull Moose" rally in Redford Saturday night of this week at the Masonic hall. Among the prominent speakers secured for the occasion are W. H. Hill, the Progressive candidate for congress-at-large and A. Lakin Cohen, a noted orator. There will be other speeches and an interesting meeting is promised.

A deserved promotion has come to Clyde Stringer, who has been agent for the D. U. R. at this place for the last year. He has been made agent at Oxford, a thriving town in Oakland county on the Flint division.

Their many friends regret the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Stringer from Redford, but at the same time pleased to know that Clyde's faithfulness and ability are to be rewarded by this promotion.

On Thursday evening the Boys' club of the Presbyterian church held their annual election at the home of the pastor when the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

Honorary Pres.—Rev. Evans
Pres.—Harold Bosworth
Vice Pres.—Carl Lahser
Sec.—Clayton Holcomb
Treas.—Allen Bosworth
Athletic Instructor—Clyde Stringer.

Pres of Athletic Dept.—Edward Reid
Statistician—Earl Gage
Musical Instructor—Mr. Bonninghausen.

Nearly two dozen members will start in on another year's work of the club and judging from the enthusiasm of this meeting its influence will continue to exercise no little part in the right development of the boys. The first Monday evening of the month is set apart for the social and musical exercise, while Friday evening is set apart for basket ball in the church gymnasium. For this purpose the trustee board of the church are considering the matter of padding the floor and the addition of shower baths. Since this meeting was held Clyde Stringer has been promoted by the D. U. R. to Oxford and Mr. Wilhelm has consented to act as instructor. His ability as a "coach" has already been demonstrated in the training of the seniors and a profitable winter's work is looked forward to.

The Branch of the Vine are planning many novel events for their Halloween social at the Presbyterian church Thursday evening, Oct. 31. An invitation is extended to everyone to attend and a good time is promised.

Clarence Hutchins was appointed and is on duty as station agent for the D. U. R. at Redford having taken the position after the resignation of Clyde Stringer. Mr. Hutchins is no stranger to the work having assisted when his brother, Roy, was the agent.

From now on the political pot is going to boil. Progressives at Redford Saturday night and Republicans next Tuesday afternoon
