Pigs Not Dirty

Contrary to the general belief, pigs are not dirty things and are not particularly greedy or hog-gish.

The United States Department of Agriculture in a recent bulletin asserts that the pig has been foully wronged. In fact this bulletin will almost lead you to believe he has under the surface unsuspected forces of restraint and daintiness.

The department found this out by experimenting with self-feeders for pigs. These, as all farmers know, are contraptions in which feed is kept where the pig can get to it whenever he likes and in a clean dry place.

One who has hand-fed hogs, spurring rations might think the pig would stow with its snout for ever in the trough. However, as a matter of fact, the pig eats less this way and is far nicer about it than when he is fed by hand.

It is usually man's fault when a pig is piggy because he will eat decently if permitted to do so.

Fire!

Holdup!

Burglary!

Accident!

All these things occurred in this vicinity last week. Are YOU insured?

Tomorrow may be too late—Insure today.
