Ross And Lamb Elected School Board Members

inations be closed. "We will now proceed to ballot," the chair announced.

W. Allen Nelson arose and asked, "Is it in order to discuss the qualifications of candidates?"

"No, it is not in order," replied Mrs. Ross. "We are about to vote." "I beg your pardon," said Mr. Nelson, and sat down.

The chair announced that due to the large attendance, voters who were to write the names of their choice on slips provided, were to file up to the front of the room, passing by the ballot box. Those standing out in the hall and around the room were asked to cast their ballots first.

A few moments after the balloting started, it became apparent that the closed ballot-box provided would be greatly inadequate for the ballots to be cast. A waste-basket was used to receive the surplus. The chair reminded the electors that but one trustee was to be voted for, there being another balloting to follow.

Vote Challenged

During the balloting on Mr. Lamb and Mr. Goers, the right of one resident in the community to vote was challenged just before he reached the ballot-box with his vote.

After some debate as to whether or not the challenge was valid, a hurried conference was held with Judge John J. Schulte, Jr. Judge Schulte advised the challenged resident that he could not vote, although he claimed the right to cast a ballot, because his daughter was registered in the first grade. Judge Schulte pointed out that the law, as read at the opening of the election by Mr. Thayer, required that residents not paying taxes must have children who were eligible for the school census of the previous year, in order to be qualified electors.

Mr. Thayer announced the total vote as 217, with 126 for Mr. Lamb, and 72 for Mr. Goers. The remainder were blank.

THE RADIO INDUSTRY

THE report of the radio division of the United States Department of Commerce for 1929 states that there are 100,000 homes in this country equipped with radio receiving sets. The United States census report for 1929 estimates a population for this country of 120,000,000, or the equivalent of 200,000,000 families, estimating this four persons to the family. This would mean that one-fourth of the homes in the United States have radio receiving sets. If all these sets were in use at the same time, and all the members of the families were listening in, the audience would reach the astonishing figure of 40,000,000 persons.

The rapid development of the radio industry is also noted in this annual report. In 1922 there were in use only 68,000 sets with an estimated audience of 75,000. The economic value of the radio industry is at once apparent when we realize that in one year (1929) the sale of radios and accessories totaled $50,000,000. The exports in a single year (1927) increased from about $3,000,000 to $11,000,000. The future of this economic development is very large, for aside from possible increase in the exports, there are still 20,000,000 homes without radio sets.

The educational and entertaining advantages of radio are so very commonplace that the danger is they are not as much appreciated as in former years. We take them as a matter of course. But, when the voices of men in other countries can be distinctly heard in our American homes, it makes us pause and wonder what the next feature will be that will bind the world close together.

Distance no longer separates nations any more than it separates individuals. Only differences of opinion separate nations today. The radio is destined to play no small part in solving the great unsolved problem which is facing every nation in the world. How are we going to live together? (© 1930, Western Newspaper Union.)

Nominates Ross

The chair then called for nominations for the second vacancy, that caused by expiration of the term of Frank T. Macomber. Nathan H. Power arose.

"I wish to place in nomination a man who is well known in this community, who started here in our town a number of years ago in a small business way, and is one of the best-known business-men of our town. He is broad-minded, cultured, greatly desires the success of our schools, and is kindly and charitable. I am pleased to nominate Al Ross."

After a considerable pause, with no other nominations, Mr. Nelson moved that the nominations be closed. The motion was supported and carried.

Mr. Nelson then arose again. "I move that the secretary be," he began.

"It can't be done," replied Mrs. Ross. "It's against the law. It's got to be done by ballot."

Vote Again

Ballots were distributed again, the electors filing up to the front of the room and back to their seats in the same manner. It was announced that 163 voters had been cast, there being 145 for Ross, 8 for Goers, 9 for Holcomb and one for Meyer.

Mr. Nichols then offered a resolution that the District adopt the nomination system of petition, which is outlined in another column of this issue. The motion was carried without dissenting vote.

Mrs. Ross then stated that she had a statement prepared which she wished the press to print this week. She stated that she would not read it, but wished it published this week.

After this statement by the board president, the meeting adjourned, at 9:30 p. m.

Withdraws Statement

On Tuesday Mrs. Ross telephoned the Enterprise and stated that she had changed her mind in regard to the statement, after careful thought and consideration and had decided that she did not want it published. Mrs. Ross said that she felt that publication of her statement would call forth replies and "more letters," and she believed it best not to have the statement printed. She requested that the statement be returned to her that day, which was done.
