OVER 1,000 KILLED ON ROADS IN NINE MONTHS

During the first nine months of 1930, 1,078 persons were killed on the streets and highways of Michigan, according to a bulletin issued today by H. O. Rounds, safety and traffic director of the Detroit Automobile Club. This is a decrease of one person killed during the corresponding period of 1929. Oakland County was second in deaths, 73, Wayne County having the greatest number.

Slightly less than one-third of the fatalities were to children under the age of 16, there being 316 of these child fatalities.

Mr. Rounds pointed out that national figures show that of the children under 16 years killed in the United States annually, more than three-fifths are children of pre-school age. He declared that this was obviously from lack of proper teaching and supervision on the part of the parents.
