Sixty-Five Fruit-Growers Watch Tree Trimming At McCracken Farm

H. D. Hootman of the Michigan State College assisted by K. D. Bailey, Oakland County agricultural agent, held an interesting and instructive fruit tree-trimming demonstration in the McCracken orchards on Twelve Mile road Friday of last week.

It was attended by fruit growers from Pontiac, Milford, Wixom, South Lyon, Northville, and Farmington. There were about sixty-five present.

Mr. Hootman gave a short talk on the influence of pruning upon early production of the tree and upon its growth. He laid particular stress upon the central leader type of tree and immediately proceeded to illustrate his point by pruning a great many young trees set in the spring of 1930.

He stated that if he could "sell the fruit-grower" on this one point he felt he had accomplished a great deal. It would avoid much future trouble in preventing the trees from splitting down and would add many years to the life of the tree.

A great many questions were asked and many specific demonstrations given to illustrate Mr. Hootman's reply to the questions. He advised the growers to keep away from the old type of scaffold branching at one point and thus avoid weak crotches. He also advised as little pruning as possible on young trees after the leader type had been formed until the tree had come into bearing.

Three-year old trees were then pruned to illustrate balancing up the trees by heading back too rapidly growing branches, and thus throwing the growth into slower growing parts of the tree.

The next demonstration was among eighteen year old trees for which he advised a moderate pruning by cutting out across limbs and overlapping branches taking out some each year until the tree was well balanced and capable of admitting some sunlight.

Mr. Hootman is looked upon as a leader of authority on fruit trees and everyone felt pleased to spend some time in watching this demonstration.

"STUNT NIGHT" TO BE HELD TUESDAY BY WOMEN'S GROUP

Many Organizations Lend Support To Business And Professional Women's Club Plan

The hearty co-operation being given the Business and Professional Women's club for its annual "Stunt Night" next Tuesday has assured the public an evening of good entertainment and fun as well as financial success for the club, members believe.

Many organizations have signified their intention of competing for the prizes.

Judges for the awards are Miss Gladys Mercer, of the Wyandotte Herald, Russell Van Avery of Redford High School and Edwin Johnson, principal of Pierson School. Cash prizes of $15, $10 and $5 will be awarded.

Setting, costuming, and talent displayed will be considered on a percentage basis.

The Farmington club is attempting to do its bit in carrying out the National program, which includes business women's week, March 6 to 12, and by sponsoring another vocational Guidance conference for girls, sometime in April. It is the hope of Farmington club to have established and ready for use next year a scholarship loan fund.

1,200 Scouts Of County To Meet In Farmington

Offers are already coming in from Farmington business men, Mr. Himmelspach said, to help care of the huge gathering of Boy Scouts. Farmington Lumber & Coal Co. through Carl Hogle, has offered a site for a camp on the corner of Farmington road and State street, directly across from the Farmington Mills. Howard Warner also advised Mr. Himmelspach that property on the corner of Farmington road and Orchard street would be available for the Scouts.

Mr. Himmelspach, who is in charge of arrangements, said that the County would be fully canvassed during the next three months and every effort put forth to insure the success of the two-day encampment.

A court of honor, an overnight hike, an evening parade on Friday June 10 and a council fire program are being planned. At least yearly at Rochester, more than 800 Scouts attended, camping overnight in the city.

Idea From Frenchman?

This country got the idea of a tripartite government probably from Montezuma, whose books were very popular in the colonies. It was the first to introduce the tripartite idea and define the advantages of the separation of the executive, legislative and judicial functions.—Washington Star.
