DRIED FRUIT SAVES JARS. HAS EXCELLENT FLAVORS

Surplus fruits can be preserved by drying by those who lack jars to care for the fruit in the ordinary manner. Drying is one of the oldest methods of preserving fruit and the dried product has an excellent flavor if the work is properly done.

Apples, peaches, pears, and plums are dried in the same manner. The fruit should be peeled and quartered and then cut crosswise into slices one-eighth inch thick. Drop the slices into water to which a tablespoon of salt to the gallon. This will prevent the fruit from turning brown before the drying starts.
