Pennies Needed To Keep FHS Swimmers Wet

Members of the Farmington High School boys and girls swim teams may hold a 24-hour marathon if enough sponsors are found.

On Friday, Nov. 12, at 4 p.m. the swimmers will begin a marathon which could last through Saturday. The marathon is a money-raiser and participants will swim as many lengths as sponsors pay for.

A SPONSOR may promise a penny a length and pay for as many lengths as he wishes. Purpose is to raise funds to buy record books and some uniforms.

Swimming with the high schoolers will be younger bankers from the Farmington area who someday hope to be members of the FHS teams. Each swimmer will be allowed to swim up to 200 lengths of the FHS pool for two hours, whichever comes first, provided the coaches say it is safe for him.

AT LEAST one member of the Farmington City Council has pledged to swim a couple lengths for the cause and a former captain of the FHS boys team will leave college athletics for a day to try for 200 lengths.

A contribution is tax deductible because the event is a 1971 Hall of Fame Swim-a-thon.

Although 70 per cent of funds earned will stay with the school projects, part of the funds will go to support the International Swimming Hall of Fame at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., a fund which sends U.S. swimmers abroad for competition and to local water safety and novice swim projects.

Anti-Bussing Council Seeks Intervention

A tri-county citizens group, organizing to oppose cross-district bussing to achieve school integration, is recruiting members from Farmington to its cause.

The Tri-County Citizens Group has organized for the sole purpose of raising funds to intervene as representative of the suburbs in the Detroit segregation suit being heard by Federal Judge Stephen Roth.

ONE OF the early Farmington residents to join Tri-County's ranks is Mrs. Mary Ann Rossman, who describes the group's only purpose as being to seek intervention as a defendant in the lawsuit.

The groups official name is Tri-County Citizens for Intervention in Federal School Action 33257 and represents suburbs in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties.

President of the group is Donald G. Green of Sterling Heights, representing Macomb County. The Oakland County representative is Mrs. Evelyn Rosemary, secretary-treasurer, of Commerce Lake.

Lord has already filed papers with Roth seeking agreement from attorneys now in the lawsuit to allow Tri-County Citizens to enter as a defendant.

The group is raising money by selling membership certificates with dues being $1 per year. The group has been chartered with the state attorney general's office as an official, non-profit organization, says Mrs. Rossman.

Lord hopes to raise about $150,000 to meet legal expenses which include paying for expert witnesses to testify before Roth. Volunteers will be going door-to-door selling the membership certificates.

MRS. ROSSMAN, who moved to Farmington four months ago and has three children in Longacre Elementary School, feels it is important that parents and children in the suburbs be represented in the Detroit segregation lawsuit.

"We feel we are apt to be involved in this lawsuit as a solution and want to intervene so we can be heard in court," she explains.

Other anti-bussing groups which have been active in the Farmington area include the National Action Group (NAG), headquartered in Pontiac, and Save Our Children (SOC) of Warren.
