Clarenceville Doctor Has New Assistant

Dr. E. D. Elise, osteopathic physician and surgeon, who has maintained an office in Clarenceville, Grand River avenue for three years and who recently opened a second office in the Robert Oakman Building, Grand River Avenue and Oakman Boulevard, Detroit, has announced the appointment of Dr. A. P. Warthman as assistant in his Clarenceville office.

Dr. Warthman has had a variety of experience since his graduation from Des Moines Still College of Osteopathy in 1927. He was an intern at Mercy Hospital, St. Joseph, Mo. He also studied at St. Joseph Diagnostic Clinic at St. Joseph. After a year spent in country practice at Agency, Mo., he went to the Ball Sanitarium at Colfax, Iowa where he has been in charge until he accepted Dr. Elise's appointment.

Dr. Warthman is married and has two children. He expects to make his home in Clarenceville.

EXCHANGE CLUB EFFORT ADDS TO ITS MEMBERSHIP

Business-Men's Organization Meet Problem With Successful Drive Forward

Farmington Exchange Club, faced with membership and financial problems due to the depression, this week indicated that it is overcoming its difficulties and instead of losing ground, is gaining memberships in the midst of hard times. A drive instituted last week by the Board of Control resulted in a report of seven new associate members, raising the roster from 19 to 26. Other new members are hoped for within the next few weeks.

The report followed reduction of the weekly cost from 50 to 40 cents, and admitting applicants as associate members without an enrollment fee of any kind. The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church co-operated in the effort by agreeing to reduce the price of luncheons to obtain large membership. The increase represents a turn-about from the condition of the last few months, when the economic situation was causing a gradual decrease in the number of those attending.

President Earl Vivier Wednesday appointed Spencer J. Heeney as scribe for the coming six months.

LEGION HALL CARD PARTY

The Business and Professional Women's Club will hold a card party at the American Legion Hall next Tuesday, January 17.

EARNINGS OF CO-EDS

Ann Arbor—More than 400 girls working for their education at the University of Michigan earned a total of $83,422 last year, while University losses of $21,025 were made by 107 other girls. They are to continue in the institution according to the third report of President Alexander G. Ruthven, just published.

GRADUATES GET JOBS

Ann Arbor—Better than one graduate a day was placed in a position during 1931-32 by the University of Michigan Bureau of Information, despite the fact that the teaching profession and the business world were both overcrowded, with unemployed, the annual report of President Alexander G. Ruthven shows.

STATE LAND LEASED

Almost 80,000 acres of state owned lands in seven counties have been leased for oil and gas development.

POND FISH FOOD

Experiments with the culture of Daphnia, "water fleas," and artificial foods have demonstrated the possibilities of propagation and breeding to an unlimited extent, according to the Fish Division of the State Department of Conservation.

Only Weak Character Indulge in Self-Pity

Never complain. Let that be your leading principle. Self-pity is one of the worst habits one can have. Unfortunately, however, persons have this evil habit, to their own and other people's torture. By pitying themselves, by continually pondering over their troubles and making a display of these in order to arouse pity in others, they increase their own sufferings without doing themselves any good whatever. Self-pity is a sentimentality of the most foolish kind and is characteristic of the weakling. Just as dirt is better in the wrong place, so is sentimentality in feeling in the wrong place! We are equipped with feelings that we may be activated by them to leave undone that which may be advantageous. When we suffer pain, we should turn it to account by noting that something is going on which must be altered, and by setting to work on the instant to make the necessary change.

If instead of doing this, we surrender to the pain, we are not true persons of feeling, but sentimentalists. There are, unfortunately, more sentimentalists than persons of true feeling. One of the evils of this is there is a considerable infusion of sentimentalism. Almost all of us like being mislabeled, are, and of indulging in self-pity, thereby doing ourselves more harm than we imagine.—D. Fretz.

Athenian Citizen Sees as Man of Many Parts

Pericles says "shows that the outstanding Athenian was a man of many parts. Sophocles, for example, is now known as a poet only, but in 427 Pericles named him chief treasurer of the city. Besides, he was a big business man, politician, warrior, general—quite the man of many parts."

But the average Athenian of the time likewise occupied varied roles. He was cultured, but as Pericles once asked, "how many?" He was a warrior as the working Spartan when conflict was at hand. He was a better sailor, in fact, thereby making his city supreme on the sea as was Sparta of land.

Greece, particularly Athens, is synonymous with such terms as mythology, early culture, and others, yet the study of the intimate details of Greek life is little that has been rarely touched. Professor Moritt, historic authority, says:

Splendid Work in Africa

The medical missionaries of West Africa have brought about a decided improvement in the condition of the natives, particularly in the case of the sick and dying. The government officials have made tests and reported that the percentage of the entire population having sleeping sickness virus circulating in their blood has been reduced to 24 per cent, and that the percentage of new cases in the entire population has been reduced to 1.35 per cent. The conclusion is that while the disease is not yet completely stamped out, it is no longer epidemic. The vigorous measures of government and missionaries have saved villages and tribes from practical extermination.

The Ideal Job

The hours are from too early in the morning for a girl to be expected to wash the breakfast dishes until too late for her to help her mother get the dinner.

The salary is the low for her to feel she ought to contribute at home and high enough to permit her to wear as few clothes as any girl in the office. The work is hard enough to make her mother insist on the most recreation and easy enough to allow her strength for the Black Belted Elephant.

The boss is handsome and a single. The office is close to the station, with three good drug stores in the same block.—McCreedy Hinton.

Jumbo Not Largest Elephant

Jumbo, the famous elephant of the Barnum & Bailey circus, was 10 feet 10 inches tall and weighed approximately six tons. Jumbo was one of the largest elephants ever in captivity, but there are records of larger elephants which were not taken alive, but killed. One elephant met in East Africa measured 11 feet 6 inches at the shoulder, had a total length from trunk to end of tail of 16 feet 5 inches and a girth of forefoot of 5 feet 8 1/2 inches.

Use of Leisure

"Of course, it is true that some persons kill themselves solely by overwork, but the fatalistic idea that can be definitely traced to that cause, are few. It is the work and play combined that results in the damage; or, to express it more succinctly, it is the misuse of one's leisure time." In the opinion of J. Clarence Funk, who writes "Is Your Leisure a Menace or a Help?" in Elgin Magazine.

Ahead of Their Time

A modern Scotsman, in speaking of the family, said: "The Douglas family is a vera, vera auld Scotch family. The line runs awa' back into antiquity. We dinna ken how far back it runs, but it's a long, long way back. And the Douglas family, the Douglas family, is respected in the volume." In about the middle of the third volume, in a marginal note, we read, "About this time the world was created."—New Outlook.

Stodgett Will Leave Property To Home

The Methodist Children's Home located on Six Mile Road will receive a property bequest of from $5,000 to $6,000 from the will of Mrs. Serenah Stodgett which was filed in Probate Court at Pontiac on Monday.

Mrs. Stodgett, a well-known Farmington resident, died here on October 20, 1932 at the age of 68. She was survived by a sister, Mrs. Charlotte Nye of Pontiac and brother, John Carey of Washington, Michigan. Edgar S. Pierce of Farmington is administrator of the estate.

The Methodist Children's Home formerly occupied a large building west of Farmington.

HUNTING TO CLOSE

The last of the series of hunting and trapping seasons which began last fall will end at midnight January 31 with the close of the seasons for taking rabbits and badgers. On that date all hunting and trapping for protected animals and birds will cease until October 1, 1933.

DAIRY IMPROVES PLANT WITH NEW BOTTLE-WASHER

Twenty Bottles Per Minute Are Washed Without Human Handling

A recent improvement, an automatic bottle washing machine, makes the plant of the Farmington Dairy one of the finest and most modern in the state of Michigan.

Bottles which were formerly washed by hand are now put into the bottling machine four at a time. They are then given a sterilizing bath of water at 140 degrees. The warm bottles are then cooled with water baths at 120 degrees, then at 80 degrees, and finally with city water.

The bottles take fifteen minutes to pass through the washing machine and at no time require human handling.

The washing machine formerly took at least six hours whereas now the same number are cleaned better in two hours with the same working force.

The washing machine costs $3,000 and has a capacity of twenty bottles per minute.

Since the filling and capping of the bottles is also automatic and takes five minutes, twenty minutes are now required to deliver a bottle of milk ready for sale.

A wall has been torn down to make room for the bottle washing machine and the painting of the inside of the dairy has been completed. Mr. Himmelspach says that plant machinery is in operation every morning and that all are welcome to see it.

AUXILIARY TO MEET

Mrs. Mildred Irving will open her home on Nine Mile Road to the North Farmington Cemetery Auxiliary for a dinner to be served at noon on Tuesday, January 17, when a business meeting will also be held.

The Auxiliary will piece a quilt, and donations of material will be appreciated. Donors are asked to bring or send the pieces to the meeting Tuesday.

Anyone is invited to attend dinner. Anyone not having transportation to the dinner should call Mrs. Joseph Graham, 6714.

To Report Tuesday On Township Welfare

(Continued from page one) kery. The township has issued 26 permits of relief cases and has received none thus far. Some Wayne County families are being fed by Farmington Township but the bill is being paid by Wayne County.

Supervisor Coe has been assisting Mr. Earle daily in the huge task of getting the welfare system functioning in efficient fashion and instituting a record system that will provide a complete checkup on every family receiving aid.

Each family brings its own container to get its relief order. Those families east of the Middle Belt Road come on Friday and those west of the road come on Saturday.

The large supply of potatoes, beans, rutabagas, carrots, and turnips raised in the township wellington a considerable saving in the filling of relief orders. Red Cross flour is also being used. Supervisor Coe is working on menu changes to provide variety and better bascule, at the same time save money.

Each family receives a ration card with a number indicating the size of the family and giving the amounts of food to be issued. The ration cards are signed by the recipients of the orders.

A ration for a family of two is as follows:

Ration for Family Of Two
2 pounds of beef, bacon, or salmon; 3 pounds of bread or 5 pounds of flour; 1 pound of oatmeal; 2 pounds of sugar; 1 pound of beans or 1 pound of macaroni; 2 pounds of soap or box of matches; 1 pound of lard or 1 pound of butter; 1 pound of oleomargarine; 1 pound of salt or pepper; 1 pound of baking powder or baking soda; 1 pound of rice or 1 pound of macaroni; 2 pounds of oats or 2 pounds of cracked wheat; 2 pounds of cabbage, carrots, onions, or prunes; 1/2 peck of potatoes or 1 pound of tomatoes; 1/2 dozen eggs; 2 cans of milk; yeast; Peanut butter; and Graham crackers are included on the lists for larger families.
