NOVI SCHOOL NEWS

The school assembly held Friday afternoon in recognition of the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln was attended by quite a few parents. Pupils from all of the grades participated and the teachers feel that the experience thus gained was of real value to them. An effort will be made to have more assemblies because of an evident lack of interest in the pupils and confidence of the pupils in all the grades.

The primary grades are taking considerable interest in a contest designed to help the janitor keep their room clean. The various rows are in competition with each other to determine which one has the most orderly desks and least amount of dirt and paper on the floor. Mr. Welsh, the janitor, acts as judge each night after school.

A new set of Science readers for the fifth grade has been ordered. The addition to these readers to the supplementary material on hand will make possible a desired change of reading material.

Most of the readers on hand deal with history or classic literature subjects. Also a number of copies of a new book entitled, "Heroes and Hero-Tales of Michigan" have been ordered for the use of the eighth grade in studying Michigan history.

Many of the high school students are having their hands full in keeping up with their work because of the frequent play practices, and preparation for a difficult test in biology and the writing of book reviews. Others are kept out of mischief because they are getting ready for the spelling bee and some are finding it necessary to do a little overtime work in order to get their mathematics satisfactorily.

TROUT MOVE TO LAKES

Lansing—The recently expressed opinion of Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, Director of the Michigan Institute for Fisheries Research that rainbow trout if not taken in the streams when small will move into the Great Lakes and thus be removed from the trout fisherman's reach, reflects a habit of trout that live in streams flowing into Great Lake waters, according to the Fish Division of the Conservation Department.
