Let's Use Sensible Economy

(Express, Red Oak, Iowa)

"True economy is not the saving of money, but the saving of men." So says Roger Babson who says that the American people have gone from the extreme of speculating to the extreme of false economy.

Mr. Babson's statement smacks with truth. Extravagance and unjustified expense must be curtailed, taxes must be reduced, overheads must be cut, but we must not go so far that we will endanger our social setup. The education program in legislatures must be dealt with sanely and not adopted without due deliberation.

Only a few years ago we were borrowing money, buying on time, pushing for increased government appropriations. Today we have leaped to the other extreme. We fire labor, curtail expenditures to the bone and the result is an economy panic.

There is a middle course. We cannot solve the depression by throwing more people out of work and reducing incomes to mere living costs. So far we have deflated wages, securities, commodities and we are in the process of deflating taxes, debts and rents. We need to do some of these things and we have succeeded. The deflating process has reached the limit, Mr. Babson says.

The need of the hour now is confidence which will restore purchasing power. More deflation will be just as disastrous as speculation was in the extreme boom days. We must protect incomes and keep labor employed to buy the products we raise and manufacture. Sensible economy is justified; ruthless economy will defeat our purpose.

Real Farm Help

(Waverly (Iowa) Independent)

Strengthened farm and security markets should not be accepted as the signal by manufacturing industries to begin boosting prices. Farmers have been struggling for a long time without sufficient rewards, and they should be allowed to get their bearings and have a few things to sell before prices for commodities are raised. We are marked up. Wisdom with which organizations do not seem to be overly endowed, would suggest keeping manufacturers' values down until farmers have a chance to do some selling. Then prices can be raised to pay present prices. The buying power of farmers should be permitted to develop to a point that will make going less difficult. Better values are lifted. There is no fear that manufacturers will long suffer from inequalities. Give the farmer time to catch up. Talk of raising commodity prices at the instant farm markets are struggling out of the bog is disappointing. One way to give farm relief is to give heed to the importance of parity of values.

Home Building

(Public Service Magazine)

One of the first lines of industry to revive on a large scale when the revival period sets in will be the home building industry. It has practically stood still for about four years. In that time with millions of people cut off from payrolls there has been a doubling up of a lot of families and that is one of the worst numbers of apartment buildings and separate buildings, but when these people get back into payrolls they will want their own homes. The number of homes that existed when this panic began will be nowhere near enough to care for the normal increases in population plus new aspirations. That means that a vast number of new homes have to be built, and that is one of the very best signs of the time. Building is a basic industry. It employs vast numbers of men, directly and indirectly. The sooner this revival sets in the better for all concerned.

Hope In A Free Press

(Grit-Advocate, Julesburg, Colo.)

Freedom in the press is even alive and active today. Every day in every community state the man or woman who would muzzle the press has to say. But when it comes to finding the proper person to do the censoring, even the advocates of the press, the church, of school books, of the man at the curbstone, is absolutely the right thing to do. The only trouble we find in carrying out this right is to find the right man to do the censoring.

If you are "agin" religion, you don't want the preacher to be the censor. If you try to live a life of abstinence and want others to live that way, too, you don't want to let the wets do the censoring. The believer in war does not want the pacifist to censor and the pacifist argues that war propaganda should be censored.

The makers of the American constitution saw with what difficulties the nation would be confronted in years to come when they wrote in plain language that "Congress shall make no laws respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or the press." This phase of the constitution, like all other phases, has been violated many times.

We are always bringing about censorship to the press, because those fighting the war in unpolstered offices are anxious to fight it their own way.

As a people, let us always cry for free press. The right is abused but much less so than would be a censored press. Man's freedom goes hand-in-hand with freedom of the press. Censor the press and you jeopardize your own liberty.

"Keep Us Alive!"

(Birmingham (Mich) Eccentric)

In these days of national and world-readjustment every reserve of hope, faith, and courage are required to enable each of us to swim against the strong tides of life's demands. We cannot afford to cringe or retreat, we must individually and collectively wage war on human selfishness and greed—the two evil influences that have brought this great nation of ours to its prayerful knees. Let us join the old Scotch clergyman who in a day of great need, asked: "Please, Lord, keep me alive as long as I live."

Stamp It Out

(Ionia County News)

While the public is generally quick to condemn the individual who takes advantage of a generous welfare sentiment to secure undeserving aid, it has been slow to resist the spirit of racketeering that has had such an amazing growth in America in recent years, fastening its slimy hands on both government and business wherever it could serve its nefarious ends.

The regime of racketeering began innocently enough when the entire country, flushed with success, was too busy to pay attention to anything but its own immediate affairs, but long ago it outgrew its swaddling clothes until now it presents a real threat to organized society. It should be stamped out as quickly as we will. It would destroy any poisonous reptile.

Today government and business are being forced to pay tribute to underworld forces to the extent of hundreds of millions of dollars annually. How much longer they can continue to stand this enormous strain is problematical. Unless drastic measures are taken, unless the nation as a whole joins the fight against this hidden monster, free government of a people is in danger. It is time the American people were aroused to the seriousness of the situation.

Where Land Is Costly

The extraordinary price at which land is sold in the best parts of London is illustrated by the recent sale of a tiny piece of land in Mayfair. The section measured only 10,230 square feet, less than half an acre, and fetched £58,000, a little more than $2 (815) a square foot. In some parts of England land is being sold at five shillings a foot frontage.—Exchange.
