"All in Day's Work,"

Says Pet's Rescuer

When dogs chased a cat named White Fox up a pole, he let the jitters and wouldn't come down—not even for his young master, Robert Irgang, of Indianapolis. Robert's mother asked the telephone company for help, and spokesman Howard Urey put on his climbing spurs, went up the pole, and brought down a grateful cat to a grateful boy. "All in the day's work," said Urey.

to reduce such hours at all.

Mechanical Workers

(3) Not to employ any factory or mechanical worker or artisan more than a maximum week of 35 hours until December 31, 1933, but with the right to work a maximum of 40 hours for any 6 weeks within this period; and not to employ any worker more than 8 hours in any 1 day.

(4) The maximum hours fixed in the foregoing paragraph (2) and (3) shall not apply to employees in establishments employing not more than two persons in towns less than 2,500 population which towns are not part of a larger trade area; nor to registered pharmacists or other professional persons employed in their profession; nor to employees in managerial or executive capacity; nor to those who receive more than $35 per week; nor to employees on emergency maintenance and repair work; nor to very special cases where restrictions of hours of highly skilled workers or continuous processes would unavoidably reduce production but, in any such special case, at least time and one third shall be paid for hours worked in excess of the maximum. Population for the purposes of this agreement shall be determined by reference to the 1930 Federal census.

(5) Not to pay any of the classes of employees mentioned in paragraph (2) less than $15 per week in any city over 500,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city, nor less than $14 per week in any city of between 250,000 and 500,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; nor less than $12 per week in any city of between 2,500 and 250,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; and in towns of less than 2,500 population to increase all wages by not less than 20 percent, provided that this shall not require wages in excess of $12 per week.

(6) Not to pay employees of the classes mentioned in paragraph (3) less than 40 cents per hour unless the hourly rate for the same class of work on July 15, 1929, was less than 40 cents per hour, in which latter case not to pay less than the hourly rate on July 15, 1929, and in no event less than 30 cents per hour. It is established a guaranteed minimum rate of pay regardless of whether the employee is compensated on the basis of a time rate or on a piecework performance.

(7) Not to reduce the compensation for employment now in excess of the minimum wages hereby agreed to (notwithstanding that the hours in such employment may be hereby reduced) and to increase the pay for such employment by an equitable readjustment of all pay schedules.

No Subterfuge

(8) Not to use any subterfuge to frustrate the spirit and intent of this agreement which is, among other things, to increase employment by a universal covenant, to remove obstructions to commerce, and to shorten hours and to raise wages for the shorter week to a living basis.

(9) Not to increase the price of any merchandise sold after the date hereof over the price of July 1, 1933, by more than is made necessary by actual increases in production, replacement, or invoice costs of merchandise, or by taxes or other costs resulting from action taken pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act since July 1, 1933, and, in setting such price increases, to give full weight to probable increases in sales volume and to refrain from taking profiteering advantage of the consuming public.

(10) To support and patronize establishments which also have signed this agreement and are listed as members of N. R. A.

(11) To cooperate to the fullest extent in having a Code of Fair Competition submitted by his industry at the earliest possible date and in any event before September 1, 1933.

Prices of Goods

(12) Where, before June 15, 1933, the undersigned had contracted to purchase goods at a fixed price for delivering during the period of this agreement, the undersigned will make an appropriate adjustment of said fixed price to meet any increase in cost caused by the seller having signed this President's Reemployment Agreement or having become bound by any Code of Fair Competition.

(13) This agreement shall cease upon approval by the President of a code to which the undersigned is subject and substitution of any of its provisions for any of the terms of this agreement.

(14) It is agreed that any person who wishes to do his part in the drive by signing this agreement, but who asserts that some provision hereof because of peculiar circumstances, will create great and unavoidable hardship, may obtain the benefits hereof by petition approved by a representative trade association of his industry, or other representative organization designated by N. R. A., may apply for a stay of such provision pending a summary investigation by N. R. A., if he agrees in such application to abide by the decision of such investigation. This agreement is entered into pursuant to section 4 (2) of the National Industrial Recovery Act and subject to all the terms and conditions required by sections 7 (a) and 10 (b) of that act.

FIRE DESTROYS FARM HOME AS OWNER GOES FOR HELP

A short time ago the owner of one of the finest farm homes in Saunders county, Nebr., had his telephone removed as an economy measure. A few weeks later he and his family were awakened to find their beautiful modern house ablaze. In order to get help, he was obliged to drive several miles to house to summon the Wahoo fire department, and by the time help arrived, the house, with all its contents, was doomed. It was totally destroyed. Commenting on this catastrophe, the Lincoln, Nebr., Star terms the removal of that particular telephone the most costly economy imaginable. It calls attention to the fact that other farmers have done the same thing and that, obviously, one who owns and occupies such a fine home ought not to dispense with such an essential thing as a telephone. It says this farmer had been able, through the use of this quick means of communication, to summon help quickly, the Star continues, it is probable that thousands of dollars might have been saved.

FARMER GETS A NEW SLANT ON ECONOMY

Fire Quickly Shows Difference in False and True Saving

While Amos Miller, a farmer living near Bedford Valley, Md., was in the local telephone office paying his bill and expressing his intention of having the telephone removed as an economy measure one morning recently, things were happening at home which gave him a new outlook on the entire subject of economy.

An outbuilding on the farm had caught fire, and the blaze, fanned by a high wind, threatened to spread to the barn and the farmhouse. Mr. Miller called the telephone exchange at the very moment that Mr. Miller, in the telephone office, was considering the advisability of having his telephone removed. The operator on duty, Mrs. Walla Nave, immediately spread the alarm, and within a few minutes neighboring farmers had arrived at the Miller farm and succeeded in confining the blaze to the building where it had its start.

Mr. Miller did not have his telephone removed. The one call undoubtedly saved his farmhouse, his livestock and his barn and farm implements, and had emphasized, in particular, the value of telephone service on the farm. "I'll never be without a telephone," said Mr. Miller, "and no other farmers who take my advice won't either."
