TELEPHONE CALL TURNS OFF HEATER IN TIME
It cost $1.60, but it was worth it. The expenditure of that small amount of money saved a Cincinnati woman hundreds of dollars recently. She had left for a visit to St. Louis, and upon her arrival in that city, suddenly remembered that she had failed to turn off the hot water heater in her apartment. So she put in a long distance telephone call to the Cincinnati fire department, requesting that someone be sent to break into her apartment and turn off the heater.
A fireman was sent to the address and his arrival proved most opportune, as a serious explosion would have occurred if the steam had not soon been released. He found the gas under the hot water tank burning full blast, and for almost half an hour after the gas was turned off, steam poured from both hot and cold water faucets which were opened by the fireman.
One man in every business of this is compelled to devote from one-fourth to all his time to diffusing out tax and other governmental information blanks.

Bluffer Often Wins
Life is much like a poker game. The jack shifts and goes unexpectedly around the table. And, as often as not, the bluffer takes the biggest pot.—Boughton Line.
Ancient Pattern Found
Pieces of cloth and a nice pattern for a patchwork quilt, 200 years old, were found in a drawer built in the wall of an old Colonial house at South Dennis, Mass.
Minutes
"Iota" is the name of the ninth and smallest letter in the Greek alphabet. It is used to signify anything very small, being a synonym of jot, title or minute particle.
There's no place like home when that's where you want to be, but when you want to be on the go and can find no one to go with you, home isn't so nice.
