Dairy Industry At Crossroad—Beach

Grand Rapids milk strike, declared it was justified and that the Association supported it, the strike being won by farmers within two days. After his address, which he had to cut short, he answered questions.

Pass Resolution
Toward the end of the meeting, a resolution was offered by Harley Gibson and passed, as follows:

"Resolved that it is the sense of the producers of milk who are members of the Farmington, North Farmington and Stark-weather locals of the Michigan Milk Producers Association, in joint meeting assembled, in Farmington Town Hall this 24th day of January, 1934, that any plan or system which nets the producer about $1 and pays about $1.75 distribution, which pays an average of 25 per cent annual profit to the distributor and ruins the producers of milk is unfair and accordingly we repudiate the base-surplus system of selling milk and we feel we are without satisfactory representation in the formation of a new code through the Michigan Milk Producers Association and its officers; that we send a telegram of endorsement and support to a committee of milk producers now on its way to Washington seeking a fair agreement for the farmer consisting of Torrey of Washington, Richard of Wayne, Derby of Sanilac, and another of PawPaw; that we endorse the request of said committee for public hearings of the producers themselves to be conducted at convenient points in the Detroit milk-shed."

There were some votes against the resolution but the hands showed there was no doubt that most of those voting favored it. Mr. Beach had left before the resolution was offered.

Members of the committee mentioned in the resolution as en route to Washington were described as members of the Michigan Farmers Union aims of which were outlined and discussed briefly.

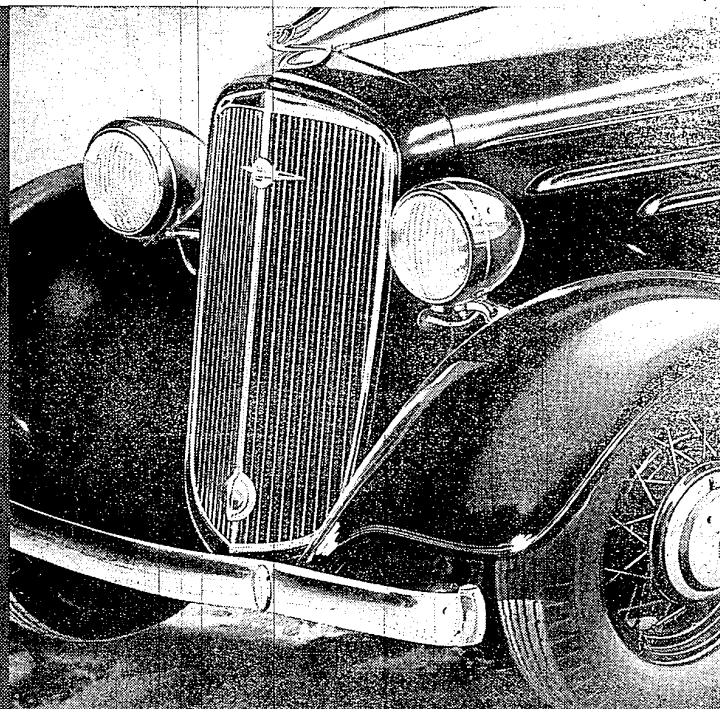

Ward Eagle of Farmington presided. In addition to Mr. Beach, Mr. Pickford, editor of the Michigan Milk Messenger spoke, as did K. D. Bailey, County Agricultural Agent, who talked on the farm mortgage money available from the Government.

OPERATORS HAILED AS HEROINES AT BAD FIRE

Stick to Their Posts, Handle Emergency Calls Until One Is Overcome

Two night telephone operators were acclaimed the heroines of a $75,000 fire in Rockland, Mass., recently. During the flames, they remained at their posts, passing emergency calls and summoning help, until one of them was overcome by smoke.

The girls were Miss Gladys Condon and Miss Agnes Wain. The telephone office was on the second floor of the building which was swept by fire. While the flames raged below, the young women stuck to their posts, refusing to leave even when the smoke and flames penetrated to the switchboard room.
