A thorough dry-cleaning or exposure to sunlight and air before storing in a compactly wrapped or closed container is the most effective way to prevent moths from damaging clothing or blankets, according to home management specialists of Michigan State College.

Clothing in closets can be freed from moths if fumigated with carbon tetrachloride. Since the gas formed by evaporation of the liquid is heavier than air, it should be placed in a shallow dish on the shelf of the closet. For the closet 2 by 5 by 7 feet use about 1½ cups of carbon tetrachloride. As soon as the liquid has been poured into the dish, shut the door and seal the cracks with gummed paper, or paste on strips of firm paper, using a flour paste.

Materials which are to be either wrapped into packages or placed in trunks or chests, must first be thoroughly examined for moth larvae. Seams should be brushed and pockets and plants thoroughly inspected. Ordinary firm wrapping paper is satisfactory for wrapping if there are no breaks in the piece being used. Newspapers are less satisfactory as they are broken more easily. Care must be exercised to bend back the folds of the paper upon themselves at the ends of the bundles so that moths can not crawl in at the ends. If the articles are placed in boxes, the extra precaution of wrapping in paper should be taken since the moths crawl in under the cover.

Carbon tetrachloride may be used in trunks also and is recommended because of its non-inflammability, and it will leave the articles odorless when removed. For a trunk about 21 by 39 by 42 inches, pour about six to 10 tablespoons of liquid into a saucer, place at top of trunk, close and seal. The liquid evaporates, forcing a gas that sinks down into the clothing, killing clothes moths and other insects.
