YOU ARE INVITED

Saturday will mark the beginning of a new enterprise in Farmington, when Forest A. Dickerson will formally open his new Hardware store to the public.

Mr. Dickerson is well known in Farmington and Oakland county, having been associated with his father, D. L. Dickerson, in the hardware business for many years.

The new store, located in the Lee Block, 33405 Grand River, will carry a complete line of everything requisite to a modern hardware store. It will be a store of friendly service, and the policy of courtesy and honesty established by the senior Dickerson, and well known in southern Oakland, will be continued by his son.

Baby Killdeer Are Slow Growers; Have Long Legs

Unlike most of our other birds, baby killdeer desert their nests just as soon as their down has stiffened off. They follow their parents in search of food. From the very start, they find it themselves, depending upon the parents only to lead them to a good feeding spot. Whenever they get cold, they give a little cry, and the parents rush to them and huddle them between their wings to get warm. Small grasshoppers, crickets, weevils, cutworms, and flies are all meant for the killdeer's diet.

Growing up is a slow process for baby killdeer, notes a writer in the Detroit Free Press. There is no sudden change in their appearance, as there is in some birds. Gradually, their legs get longer. Their ridiculous little tails lengthen and finally are pushed out altogether by the becoming juvenile tail feathers.

The downy covering of their bodies is replaced also, but not suddenly. It seems that they simply swell and expand and grow taller, much as young children do. Young killdeer are good swimmers from the start. Even though their toes are not webbed, they do not hesitate to swim across puddles or even flood streams when they find the water too deep for wading.

Law feathers to develop are those which enable the killdeer to fly. By that time they are practically full grown and it is hard to tell them apart from the adult. As long as the flight feathers have not grown, the birds have to depend upon running and hiding to escape their enemies.

Pollen From Forests Is Blown Great Distances

A yellow pollen resembling sulphur fell in abundance in Colorado a number of years ago, but microscopic examination proved it to be pollen, blown from pine trees growing some miles away. While some plants are pollinated by insects, others depend on the wind to transport their pollen. A single acre of ragweed has been observed to discharge into the atmosphere upward of 8,000,000,000 pollen grains in one morning; a "pollen survey" has shown that the outdoor air in some localities contains as many as 5,000 pollen grains a cubic yard. Pine and some of the other conifers are among the most prolific of pollen producers.

The air in the vicinity of a pine forest sometimes is filled with visible clouds of pollen, and columns of it rising from the trees have been mistaken for the smoke of a forest fire. Pine pollen once fell in such abundance at Pictou, Nova Scotia, that bucketfuls were swept up on the deck of a ship. The town of Lund, Sweden, is said to have been shrouded with pollen from a pine forest 35 miles away.—Indianapolis News.

Flage That Fly At Night
Over the Capitol building at Washington there are four flag staffs; the flags over the East and West entrances fly night and day and are hoisted down only when the Congress adjourns. These flags are the only ones in the United States which by right are permitted to fly after sundown. The custodian of the flags states that since this Congress has been in session wind and rain have worn out seven sets of flags.

It's about time for the new calendars to begin to appear.

"Obviously, the only sound policy that will meet these obligations is to continue to furnish the best possible telephone service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety."

The Unseen Factor

AMERICA's world supremacy in telephone service is an achievement of the Bell System. And no factor contributed more to the winning of that leadership than the unseen factor of policy.

The fundamental policy of the Bell System is to supply the best possible telephone service at the least possible cost; and the status of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company as a part of that System has a definite, practical meaning for the people of this State.

It means that the telephones and other equipment used in Michigan are of the finest modern make, produced for us—more economically than they can be bought elsewhere—by the Western Electric Company, manufacturing division of the Bell System.

It means that this Company gets the benefit of the work constantly going forward in the famous Bell Laboratories, where more than 4000 scientists devote their entire time to the improvement of the service.

It means that we receive assistance in financing; the use of thousands of important patents; advisory counsel on methods of operation. In short, it means that we can utilize the many benefits that have grown out of a half-century's progress in telephonic communication—a progress which has brought to the modern telephone, despite the vast and intricate physical equipment involved, such efficient simplicity that its use presents no difficulty even to a child.

That progress could not have been achieved under a dollar-chasing policy, but only under a policy honestly dedicated to genuine public service. And that policy, though invisible, is as real and as important as the poles and wires and cables which link the Michigan subscriber with thirty million telephones distributed throughout the world.
