An Addition to the House

Very few purchasable things add as much to a home—solid value per dollar of cost—as modern telephone service.

It adds security. The presence of a telephone in the house means that here no time will be lost when some sudden crisis demands the services of a doctor. It means dependable, 24-hour contact with the police. It is a valuable form of insurance, for its swiftness in summoning the fire department can easily mean the difference between trifling damage and a crippling loss.

It adds comfort. The telephone frees every member of the family, and especially the housewife, from the drudgery of unnecessary steps. It saves them bothersome errands.

It often enables them to escape hazardous exposure to disagreeable weather.

It adds enjoyment. The family accessible by telephone has greater opportunities for social pleasures. Over it they can both extend and receive invitations; they can send congratulations, or exchange greetings of the season. They can take part in "voice reunions" with distant friends or relatives—can indulge in the amenities of life to an extent denied those families without this modern, inexpensive convenience.

By delivering genuine value, telephone service of the type this Company supplies to Michigan has earned recognition as a welcome, sensible addition to the house.
