

MORE TELEPHONES BEING INSTALLED IN MICHIGAN

Approximately $30,000,000 will be expended by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company this year for operation of its service, extension and maintenance of plant, taxes, interest, and the purchase of supplies and material essential to the conduct of its business, according to the company's present estimate for 1936.

Of the total expenditures, the greater proportion will be paid out for plant, approximately $12,000,000 representing salaries and wages to the company's 7,500 employees. Of a total tax bill of over $1,000,000 federal state and miscellaneous local taxes, the company will pay to the State of Michigan $2,622,571.85. A check for part of the state taxes was presented Tuesday (June 30) to Auditor General John J. O'Hara. The balance is to be paid the state before November 1. These taxes go to the primary school fund.

Large quantities of the supplies and building materials required by the company this year also will be represented by expenditures in Michigan. These items include furniture, oil, gasoline, cleaning materials and equipment, paper, tons of printed matter, newspaper advertising space, electric light and power, automobiles, trucks, batteries, tires, trailers, transportation, lodgings and meals for traveling employees, paint, brick, lumber, cement, stone, steel and other building materials, plumbing fixtures and almost numbering fixtures and products. Almost every business and industry in the state will benefit.

Gain of telephones, which in 1935 was $2,000, is expected to reach 40,000 this year. The first four months of the year gave the company a net gain of 17,000 telephones, and up to the first of May the company had regained about one-third of the 210,000 telephones lost during the early years of the depression.

Under the Michigan law, telephone, telegraph, express, railroad and car-cleaning companies pay taxes to the state in lieu of other taxes, upon property generally used for conducting their businesses. The Michigan Bell Company is the largest taxpayer of the utilities group. The tax money paid the state by these utilities is placed in the primary school fund and from there is distributed among all public school districts in proportion to the number of children of school age residing therein.

The tax bill to be paid by the Michigan Bell Company this year represents $7.21 per telephone, based on the average number of telephones operated by the company during 1935. Net earnings from 270,000 telephones, or substantially one-third of the average number operated last year, will be

WHO ARE YOU?

The Romance of Your Name
By RUBY HASKINS ELLIS

An Allen?

THE name Allen has passed through many changes in spelling, but the present well-known form has been in general use since the Thirteenth century.

The name has been found in a very early period, even in the Christian era, spelled Ain, from the Arayan word "al," meaning mountains. The first-place name was Mount Alennus, north of the Caspian sea, and the people of this locality were known as the Alani tribe.

Later, this name is found in Britain, then it was transferred to Brittany, where it flourished for many centuries, and finally brought back to Britain by Alan if a general in the army of William the Conqueror, who, after the historic battle of Hastings in 1066, was crowned Earl of Richmond. At his death this title passed to his brother, Alan II, and from him was handed down to many generations.

One of the first members of the family to use the name, as it is now spelled, was Henry Allen, Lord of Buckenhill, Staffordshire, England, in 1272. Robert Henry Allen, high sheriff of County Devon, 1851, traced his descent in a direct line to Henry. Most of the branches spelling the name, Allen, Allyn, Allyn and Allynne can trace to Henry.

John Allyn, a canon of Windsor, was born 1372. William Allen, born 1532, was made a cardinal in 1581. Henry Allen was bailiff of Yarmouth 1571. Johannes Allen was a member of parliament from Yarmouth, 1514.

In London, 1246, Pyers Allyn was Lord Mayor of that city. There were many of this name with titles of high degree, dukers and lords, who are found in every period of England's history.

There were many "first settlers" of this family in America. Too many to recount here, but one of the earliest arrivals was Edward, who left London in 1600. His ves-

CAKES AND WINE

THE tea which was "served" at the famous Boston Tea Party one December night in 1773 is commonly regarded as the most important beverage in Revolutionary war history. But something should be said for the cakes and wine which Mary Lindley Murray served one August afternoon in 1776.

Washington had just been defeated at the Battle of Long Island and, by a masterly maneuver, had led part of his army safely across the East river. General Putnam's 4,000 Continentals were also retreating but it seemed certain that Sir William Howe's quick movement would cut them off.

So confident was Howe that when his companion, Governor Tryon, suggested they stop at the home of Robert Murray, a Quaker merchant, whose wife was a Patriot sympathizer, and banter her about the rout of her "rebel" friends, the British commander willingly agreed. Mrs. Murray and her daughters were charming. They gave Howe and Tryon and Sir Henry Clinton and Lord Cornwallis a warm welcome. The wine and cakes the women served were excellent. For two hours the British officers lingered.

During those precious two hours, Putnam and his Continentals were swiftly marching. By the time Howe took up the pursuit again, Putnam's 4,000 were safely out of reach. They joined Washington and the next day helped him fight the Battle of Harlem Heights, the only Revolutionary battle won by the Americans in what is now New York city.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

LIGHTFOOT MAKES A SURPRISING DISCOVERY

PROBABLY there is no happier time of the year for Lightfoot the Deer than when the dreadful hunting season ends and he is once more back in his beloved Green Forest with nothing to fear. All his neighbors called on him to tell how glad they were that he had escaped again and how the Green Forest would not have been the same had he not returned.

So Lightfoot roamed about without fear and was happy. It seemed to him that he could not be happier. There was plenty to eat, and that blessed feeling of nothing to fear. What more could anyone ask? He began to grow sleek and fat and handsome than ever. The days were growing colder and the frosty air made him feel good.

Just dusk one evening he went down to his favorite drinking place at the Laughing Brook. As he put down his head to drink he saw something which so surprised him

Battleships and Cruisers

A battleship is one of a class of the largest and most heavily armed or armored vessels. A battle cruiser is a warship of dreadnought size, highest speed and heaviest battery, but without the heavy armor protection of the dreadnought. It is designed for high-speed cruising, scouting and long-range fighting.

"Little Stanton"

Although five feet eight inches tall and broad of shoulder, Edwin M. Stanton, secretary of war under Lincoln, was called "Little Stanton" when he first started practicing law in Cadiz, Ohio. The mighty Stanton, who was also near-sighted, weighed only 125 pounds then, at the age of twenty-two.

Pictureque Trossachs

The Scotch Trossachs, which have played such a part in Scotch song and story, form a rugged rock clad glen between Loch Katrine and Loch Achray. Frothing rapids, verdant hillsides, somber ravines are in evidence in picturesque confusion on every side.

Tyler's Grave

John Tyler's grave in Hollywood cemetery, Richmond, Va., was unmarked for more than half a century, until in 1914, congress appropriated $10,000 for a monument.

Panthers

While it is doubtful if panthers ever were plentiful in any part of the East, 100 years ago their range extended at least as far north as New Brunswick. Its last stands in the North probably were in New Brunswick, Maine, the Adirondacks and the Pennsylvania hills. Florida, the Oklawaha swamp in Georgia, and the Great Smoky mountains undoubtedly constituted its last southern strongholds. Panthers still are found in Florida, principally in the Great Cypress swamp, but it is doubtful if any remain in the Oklawaha or the Great Smokies.

Birds Land Only to Nest; May Not Return in Years

It is difficult for us, who belong so essentially to the land, to realize that there can be warm-blooded things which belong just as essentially to the great world of ocean—there to live, month in, month out, with nothing but sea around and the skies overhead, notes a writer in Answers Magazine.

Their world is a strangely beautiful world, yet one would think that in time it would become an endless dreary and monotonous one! Sea—sea, nothing but sea!

The gannet chick, which in August flies from the rugged shelves of the Bass Rock or Kintyre or St. Kilda, may not again set foot on land for a matter of five years. Tens of thousands of stormy petrels darken the face of the mid-Atlantic, close upon 2,000 miles from the nearest land. They come ashore only to nest, and their little legs cannot support them.

The great glaucous gull, or burgoonster, born on a desolate Arctic isle, may encircle the earth ere some day he majestically lowers himself to the dark surface of the Thames, or soars like a thing of gold in the sunset high above the cliffs.

Montana Once Held Weird Life

That strange animals once inhabited the Crazy mountains region in Montana is revealed by the stipulations of Dr. George G. Simpson conducted by Dr. American Museum of Natural History. More than sixty species of weird creatures have been found, ranging from squirrel-sized animals regarded as distant relatives of the great family of primates to creatures called bear-dogs, although they were not ancestral to either. These latter animals apparently were carnion-feeders, with hyena-like habits. Some very primitive forms of hoofed animals are in the Smithsonian Institution's collection from this region. These creatures lived in the paleocene epoch, or just after the dinosaurs had vanished.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Chimney Rock, N. C.

Chimney Rock gets its name from a peculiar formation amazingly like a real chimney. The base of the rock is connected to a mountain of almost solid rock, but tapers away from the ledge about a quarter of the way to its top. There is a walk from the mountain across a chasm to the top of Chimney rock, the view from the top is magnificent. The town of Chimney Rock is about 18 miles from Asheville on the Greenville-Spartanburg highway.

The great number of the Allen pilgrims who settled in New England in the earliest days of the colony is sufficient evidence to warrant the vast number of descendants in every part of the United States today. There were Allens who were of the Virginia colony also.

Street Names Not Used

Although street names have been used for more than 2,000 years, some great cities have existed without them almost to the present day, says Cott's Weekly. For example, Constantinople was 1,600 years old and had a million population before it named its streets and numbered its houses less than twenty years ago.
