

United States Has More Telephones Than All Other Countries Combined

THE WORLD'S TELEPHONES
On Jan. 1, 1935

North America	18,750,570
South America	50,000,000
Europe	12,088,768
Africa	259,384
Oceania	755,818
Total	33,539,590

Both in actual numbers and on the basis of telephones to population, the United States leads the world in telephone development. On January 1, 1935, the latest date for which comparable figures with other countries are available, the United States had 50,000,000 of the world's telephones, and the entire continent of North America had 54,495,000. Europe had 35,865,000 of the telephones of the world, Asia 4,495,000, South America 2,045,000, Africa 275,000, and Oceania, which comprises Australia, New Zealand, Dutch East Indies, Philippine Islands, etc., had 2,555,000.

The total number of telephones in service in the world on January 1, 1935, was 33,539,590. Of these, 16,865,000 were in the United States, more than in all the other countries of the world combined. Next to the United States in actual number of telephones came Germany with 3,124,102, followed by Great Britain and Northern Ireland with 3,566,211, France with 1,939,869, Canada with 1,193,729, and Japan with 1,008,244. These are the only countries except the United States where more than a million telephones are in use.

Soviet Russia, including Siberia and associated republics, was the country with the largest number of telephones below the million mark, with a total of 223,831. Next to Sweden with 616,947, and Italy with 516,075. The only other country above the 500,000 mark was Australia with 501,497.

The country in South America with the largest number of telephones is Argentina, with Brazil in second place, followed by Chile, Colombia, Uruguay and Peru in the order named.

On a basis of telephones to population, the six leaders are different. The United States leads with 13.36, in contrast to 1.88 for the entire world. Canada jumps into second place with 10.31, followed closely by Denmark with 10.15, New Zealand with 10.20, Sweden with 9.25, and Switzerland with 9.25.

Great Britain, Germany and France, Japan, high in total number of telephones, have respectively 8.25, 7.25, and 6.25 telephones per 100 of their populations, while Soviet Russia, which was seventh in actual number of telephones, has a telephone development of 0.43 telephones for each 100 of its population.

Child of Mabel, resides at Ball-leul and receives the homage of his subjects on Mardi Gras. Calais, in the French Channel, is the home of the giant, who is 20 feet tall, while Mabel has its own individual citizen named Berguarnard, a giant of 1830 who wears a store of gold that is due feet high.

The Bible tells of a shepherd boy named David killing the giant Goliath several thousand years ago, but Goliath is living at Calais, a village in the French Channel, where he is a giant of 20 feet tall, and his exercise is his annual and biennial promenade through the streets of Calais.

The Calabrians trace their pedigree even beyond the Christian era to the East of Calais, where they figured in the conquest of northern Europe by the Goths, finally settling in Sweden. The line is traceable to Eric, King of Goths in Sweden.

War Call Up to Congress
If President So Urges

The President of the United States cannot formally declare war, but when he finds an actual state of war existing, he may take the necessary military steps in the absence of congressional action. It is the role judge whether such a condition exists.

The Constitution of the United States, the President has the power to veto an act declaring war, and Congress has the power to pass it over his veto. A bill to join resolution declaring war does not differ from any other bill or joint resolution, and cannot become effective until it has been presented to the President and approved by more than two-thirds of the Senate and two-thirds of the House of Representatives. No President has ever vetoed an act declaring war. It would seem to be bad policy for Congress to pass such an act without the approval of the official who by virtue of his office is commander-in-chief of the army and navy and who would be charged with the prosecution of the war. As a matter of fact, it is customary for Congress to pass an act declaring war only after the President has recommended such a step.

Women 'Rule the Roost'

South Africa is the only place in the world where women "absolutely rule the roost" and father has no voice at all in domestic affairs, says John Johnson, a South African Sunday Express. Among the Bantu tribes of northeast Rhodesia, women-in-law problems of civilized lands pale into insignificance. The Bantu tribal law lays down that a man, when he marries, must live with his wife's parents and work for his father-in-law. In this tribe it is the wife and her mother who direct everything, and no notice is taken of the husband.

Novo Scotia Primarily Scotch

Because of Longfellow's "Evangeline," Novo Scotia is popularly supposed to be mainly French and English. But it is primarily Scotch. The opening of its parliament is accompanied by the skirl of bagpipes, and several newspapers there are owned partly by Gaelic. In the Novo Scotia county of Inverness, 72 per cent of the inhabitants speak Gaelic, while less than half of the people in the similarly named county in Scotland can talk that tongue.

Legends of Giants Awe

Some People in France

According to a census of people in France there are 175 medieval monsters existing in French legends, writes a Little World Press correspondent.

The giants have an average height of 22 feet and range in age from one day to one century. The world's biggest toys and the French populations of France have been amusing themselves with these monstrous playthings since time immemorial. Municipal councils provide communal shelter for these wood, cardboard and cloth giants which emerge once a year and are taken to the towns festivals and carnivals.
