Secretaries' Secretary

Miriam E. Forester of Westland is the new corresponding secretary of the Detroit Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International). She and other officers were installed at the organization's June meeting.

GETTING ACQUAINTED are "coeds" Mrs. Gail Brown of Livonia (left) and Mrs. Carl Knapp of St. Joseph. Both took part in College Week for Women classes at Michigan State University. One of the three mini-classes the women chose was "Coping Creatively With Change," taught by Marian Kinget, professor of psychology at MSU, who is in the center of the picture. More than 700 women enrolled for the course.

Stress Human Ecology, Speaker Tells 'Coeds'

Caryl Kline is a slim, pretty woman with a severe French twist. She is the director of Continuing Education for Women at the University of Pittsburgh, and her speeches recall the old fire and brimstone days of intense, passionate efforts at reform. A farm girl from Wisconsin, she recalls raising strawberries, raspberries and Devonshire cattle.

But home is not the same any more. In a talk recently before participants in Michigan State University's annual College Week for Women, Mrs. Kline spoke of her favorite pond which is now hopelessly polluted. And in a different vein, she mentions mothers in her home town who are no longer ashamed to be seen with their retarded children.

MRS. KLINE's theme was the College Week theme - "Living Creatively With Change."

"All things change," she said, "and to live creatively, we must learn to put things together in a different way."

We are concerned today with the conservation of our natural resources - air, water, trees, etc. This concern is necessary to preserve our country, she said, but it's time we also started practicing human ecology.

Human ecology means taking a few minutes each day to call an elderly person who lives alone on too little money. It means helping provide facilities for the mentally and emotionally handicapped in your own community. Human ecology is being understanding of the problem of alcoholics and drug addicts. It is literally the conservation of human resources.

HUMAN ECOLOGY requires that we maintain the same civic spirit, involvement and volunteerism that Alexis de Tocqueville saw when he visited the United States nearly 150 years ago, Mrs. Kline said. And these three traits are based on knowledge and participation.

"It's a small world, but we need to know where it is," she said. "We must educate ourselves about geography, nutrition, political issues, different points of view. We need a 'loyal opposition' because, just like a car on slick ice, nothing can move forward without friction."

"And once we know about the problems and the issues, we must work to solve them," she explained. "If you like it, say so. If you don't like it, say so."

Through education and participation - particularly volunteerism - we can adapt successfully and creatively to the inevitable changes in our society, she said.

For those who remember the "little black dress" of depression days, Mrs. Kline explained, "Creativity is not what you have, but what you do with it."

CEW Sets Meeting

A conversation on "What It's Like to Be an Adult Woman Student Today" will be held Tuesday, July 20, at the Center for Continuing Education for Women of the University of Michigan.

The center is located at 330 Thompson St., Ann Arbor. The conversation will be held from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Women who are planning to return to school after an interruption are invited to attend.

A similar conversation is planned on Aug. 26 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Waiting Wives To Hear Talk By Pharmacist

A pharmacist from NARCO (Narcotics Addiction Rehabilitation Commission) will speak at 7:30 p.m., July 20, at the Selfridge Air Force Base Chapel to the Waiting Wives.

Anyone whose husband or fiancé is stationed overseas or in the U.S. is eligible to join the Waiting Wives and participate in their activities, including card parties and theatre trips.

Persons needing transportation to the speech can contact Chaplain Warren Turner at the base.

300 Youngsters Invited To Join Cruiser Outing

Some 300 youngsters from Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Counties will sail down the Detroit River Tuesday, July 20, on the ninth annual boat cruise for handicapped children.

Invitations have gone out to the tri-county area from the Metropolitan Society for Crippled Children and Adults, 17330 Schaefer, for the event which is sponsored each year by members of the Automotive Boosters Club, B-19, an organization of automotive representatives. Richard G. Johnson of Farmington, a booster as well as a Metro Society Board member, is again chairman of the event.

CLOSE TO 50 privately owned cruisers have been lined up again this year for the event which was originally planned for boys and girls from the society's annual day camp and has now grown to more than many more children in the year.

The youngsters will be transported by chartered busses to Kean's Boat Harbor at the foot of Meadow Brook. There, they'll be kept busy and entertained by Moten Shrine clowns, the music of Fred Daye and his German Band during the boarding of the cruisers, which will begin at 9 a.m. By 10 a.m., the 10-mile river caravan is expected to be on its way.

To insure safety on the cruise, two boats are especially equipped to handle patients requiring medication. Doctors and nurses will go along to cope with emergencies, and on all boats passengers are supervised by staff members and adult volunteers from the Metropolitan Society Therapy Center.

THE U.S. COAST Guard and the Detroit Police Harbor Patrol will be in front and behind the flotilla and senior Red Cross life guards will be spaced among the boats.
