TEAM TO PLAY IN TOURNAMENT
The Farmington High School basketball team will compete in the tournament at Milford this weekend, beginning on Thursday might's Games will be played in classes B. C. and D. The tournament in class G. promises to be the best ever held at Milford with all teams apparently very evenly matched. To pick is winner now from Milford, Walled Lake, Keego Harbor, Holly, Trenton, and Brighton would be a difficult task. Farmington has very difficult competition in being placed in class B, meeting Bedford Union, one of the strongest teams in the Detroit Suburgan league. These being the only class B teams in the tournament, the game will be played Sauthay alght. In several practice scrimmages between the two squads, Redford Union has held a distinct advantage and should win easily. In Bittner, they have an especially tall and rugged center who easily dominates the tipoeft.

Farmington lost another close game Friday night, this time to the big team from Milford. They used their height and weight to advantage, gradually wearing out the Farmington team. Farmington built a small lead in the second durater but fell behind after leading 16 to 15 at the balf. Howard Turner was handicapped by Milford's close guarding. This was the same as in the previous game with Milford, when Turnar scored only three points—the same number as he scored in Friday might's game.

Dewayne Hoffman, however, has been especially strong against Milford to both games, At Milford he scored 12 notes and leat Filder he
