BILL* for the finest cooking that money can buy:

Electric Cooking is not expensive

*These latest figures on the cost of operating an electric range show an average of about ONE-HALF A CENT a meal a person. Actual meter tests were made in homes using electric ranges. The cost figure is obtained under everyday working conditions in ordinary kitchens. The ranges are used by women cooking meals daily for families of three, four and five people, or larger. In the survey, 5 well-known makes and 9 different models of electric ranges were included. These tests prove conclusively that electric cooking is not expensive. 10,000 of your neighbors chose electric cooking during the year 1936. SEE THE NEW ELECTRIC RANGES ON DISPLAY AT DEPARTMENT STORES, ELECTRICAL DEALERS, AND THE DETROIT EDISON COMPANY.

Epworth League News
By Douglas Parker
A pleasant surprise is in store for next Sunday night's meeting of the league. Our sponsors have secured as a guest speaker, Superintendent Reed, of the Ford Republic School. Mr. Reed will deliver an interesting talk on the activities and aims of the Ford Republic School, and the league are urged to turn out to hear him.

With the date for the presentation of "Sound Your Horn," the sparkling league play, drawing near, leaguers are asked to boost ticket sales for the production. The public is evidencing interest in the play and it is expected that many tickets will be sold. Distribution of tickets will be arranged next Sunday. All profits from the venture will be used in paying our twenty-four hour pledge.

Epworth leaguers who missed last Sunday's meeting really lost out on a verbal battle par excellence. Following the reading of a report on the sit-down strike question, the league swung into a heated and heavy argument on the question which ended up by no one being convinced. However, many good points were brought up and the evening was more than enjoyed by those present.

Much secrecy still surrounds the nature of the surprises which our league sponsors are planning for our final meeting on May 15. Only one thing is certain, and that is that it should be very good, despite the fact that last Sunday was such a wonderful spring day, our league meeting attracted a crowd of around forty members, which is very good, everything considered. The sixth edition of the Echo will be on sale Sunday. . . better arrange to get your copy.

Lots Baker played two piano selections at the student recital of Miss Etta Tanley at the Redford Conservatory of Music on Tuesday evening.

The Romance of Your Name

A Clerk?
LIKE so many of the early Anglo-Saxon names, the name of Clark or Clarke, originated from an occupation and in this instance the occupation was undoubtedly the office of a clerk. This office was considered a very superior one, as such a position required the services of one possessing great ability in reading and writing ancient medieval lore. Consequently, the Clarks were people of high intellectual admiration. The Clarks in England, East Anglia particularly, were dwellers there before the Norman conquest.

They were very religious and devout and were active in building priories and abbeys in that part of the country. An interesting tradition of the family connects them by marriage with the descendants of Joseph of Arimathea. Among the first immigrants to America, there were many of the name of Clark. The name on board the Mayflower was a Clark. Thomas Clark of Plymouth, settled in 1622, and Capt. Daniel Clark of Winstor, Conn., was a settler in 1630. Tristram (or Thurston) Clark was born in Ipswich, England, county Suffolk, in 1704, came to America and settled at Plymouth, 1634. William Clark, a freeman at Watertown, Mass., in 1631, removed to Woburn before 1646. Currier Clark was born in Bedfordshire, England, 1603, and came to Newport, R. I., in 1633. Arthur Clark was living in Boston in 1643. © Pacific Leader, Inc.—WNU Service.

Tremendous Trifles
By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

FLAG-AVENGER

MR. JOHN T. FORD is happy. It is a big night for his theater in Washington. The gifted Laura Keane is starring in "The American Cousin," and in the audience will be no less a person than the President. So—"Decorate the box in which the President will sit tonight with the American flag." Thus John Ford orders.

The play begins. One of the most appreciative in the audience is that sad-faced man in the stage box. A slender dark young man enters it and stands for a moment behind the President. Suddenly he steps forward. "Sic semper tyranni!" he shouts. There is a sound of a shot. The head of the President is hurled forward on his breast. The young man lets his pistol fall. He points to the rail of the box, ready to leap down to the stage. But at that moment, the spy on the ceiling has caught the flag which drapes the box. He falls to the stage with his left leg doubled under him. The bone snaps but he hobbles out of the theater.

That broken leg, however, will become so painful that he will have to stop at the home of a kindly doctor for aid. His well-held plans for a quick escape will be upset. He will be overtake and shot down. That bit of red, white and blue bunting, when its folds caught the spur of John Wilkes' Booth, was the avenger of Lincoln's assassination that tragic night in April, 1865. © Western Newspaper Union.

Fort Knox, Maine
Fort Knox is in the town of Presque Isle, Me., across the river from Bucksport. It was started in 1846 but was not completed until 1886. Its purpose was to protect the headwaters of the Penobscot river. During the Spanish-American war the fort was used as a training camp for soldiers. It is the property of the state of Maine, by a gift deed from the government.

Steel Carbon Content
Mild steel carbon content ranges upward from 0.2 per cent. It is extensively used in farm equipment in the form of rods, bars, channels, and angle iron, as well as for wire, nails, screws, and sheels. It is tough, strong, and easily welded by any process.
