Figures Show Increase In Marriage Rate

Dan Cupid and economic prosperity work hand in hand according to the historical record of Michigan's vital statistics for the past 69 years released by the Michigan Department of Health. The 1936 total of 47,023 marriages is almost double the number recorded in the Depression year of 1932. Even the halcyon days of 1929 can't compete with the present era in the number of marriage-minded couples. In fact, the marriages for the past year better all records for the previous thirteen years. The only time when Cupid's call was more effective was in the Coolidge prosperity years of 1923 and 1924, and in the 1920 post-war year when marriages went over the 50,000 mark for the first and only time in history.

Divorce Rate Up
But those same records indicate that prosperity boosts the divorce rate, too. Divorces for the past year totaled 11,419, the highest since 1929. On the basis of these challenging statistics, 24 per cent of Michigan's June brides are facing the termination of their marriages in the divorce courts. Only in 1929 did divorces ever reach the total recorded during the past year.

Births in Michigan are returning to their normal total after their depression slump. With the lowest birth rate on record in 1933, Michigan now shows a continuing rise up to 1936 with a present total of 88,451 births. The birth rate of 17.4 per thousand population is the highest in five years.

Use of Diesel Oil Shows Big Increase

The use of Diesel oil for highway purposes in Michigan is showing an increase which has attracted attention of gasoline tax division officials of the Department of State. For the first three months of 1937, the records of the Secretary of State show that the consumption of diesel fuel in this state has jumped 43% over the consumption for the corresponding period of the year previous.

The state's 3 cent a gallon gasoline tax is collected on any kind of fuel used to propel motor vehicles on public highways. Diesel oil collections are still almost infinitesimal as compared with regular "gas" collections, but the steady growth shows an interesting trend.

In addition to an increase in the sale of Diesel oil horsepower in the nation, and the increase in commercial vehicle registration, officials assign as another factor in the Diesel oil consumption increase, the fact that some large Michigan transport companies have been experimenting with its use.

A drivers' license law is not intended to stop crime, but if suspicious characters are stopped by police and they do not have license cards, the suspects may be detained on that charge, pending further investigation.
