Completes Pullet Growth

After the 12th week, the feed requirements of a pullet are the same as those of an adult hen. Both need Larro Egg Mash. This ration is specially designed to complete the growing job and provide for every mash requirement of the laying bird. At the same time Larro Egg Mash builds health and greater resistance to disease. Brings maturity at the right time and enables the birds to do a more profitable job of laying for you. Start using it now!
