Debate Squad Makes Trip

(By Roger Walker)

Debate Coach McKay escorted five members of his squad to Ypsilanti last Thursday that they might use the college library in their research for material on the current debate question "Resolved, that the several states adopt systems of unicameral legislature." The group included Dorothy Johnson, Bill Schulkins, Gordon Matheis, James Gibbs and Roger Walker. Having gathered the information sought, the group was taken to the college newspaper office where Mr. McKay introduced them to the editor, Leonard Fred Liechty. Mr. Liechty then accompanied the group on a tour of McKenney Hall, the ultimate goal of which was the cafeteria where Mr. McKay bought sandwiches for all, thus climaxing an educational and informative evening.

F. H. S. BAND PERFORMS FOR FOOTBALL FANS

(By Dick Reid)

The Farmington High School Band, under the direction of Mr. Ralph Banta, made their first appearance of the season at the first home football game on Friday, October 8.

The band played one number during the first quarter and marched on the field between halves. They marched from the west end of the field to the east and returned to the center where they formed the letter "C" for Clarkston. They played two selections while in the "C" formation, turned, and formed the letter "F" for the Farmington side. After playing "Washington and Lee Swing" and the school song, written to the tune of "On Wisconsin", in that formation they marched to the west end of the field and back to the fifty-yard line and then off the field. They received a great ovation from the spectators.

During the second half, a novelty band made up of boys from the regular band played along the side lines.

Junior Class to Sponsor Dance

(By Dorothy Johnson)

The Junior class is sponsoring an "All Hallows' Eve" Dance on October 29. We hear that their plans are really fine and this columnist believes that every one of us ought to offer our support. If you haven't yet bought your ticket—buy it today! Tickets may be obtained from Marlow Worsfold or any of her committee.

Walled Lake Elects Officers

(Meryl Markie, Exchange Editor)

The Walled Lake high school has elected its class officers, class sponsors, editorial staff, and a delegate and representatives to the annual Home Economics Convention.

The senior class of New Hudson rented the roller skating rink at Island Lake. They also are making plans to sell stationery, Christmas cards, and subscriptions for magazines. The profits derived from the roller skating and sales campaign will be put into a fund toward a trip at the end of their senior year.

Student Council Active in Events

(By Paulette Gamba)

The members of the Farmington High School Student Council seem just proud of their new emblems. These distinguished emblems of service are light green with large white letters. On Friday, the council with the cooperation of cheer leader Dick Barrons, held an enlightening "Pop Meeting". George Ots, council president, was Master of Ceremonies, and the main speaker was Mr. McKay, one of the best liked teachers in school. With his humorous remarks, and his sensible advice, he was appreciated by all who heard him. Led by Dick Barrons, the students rehearsed the cheers to be used at the game.

At the game also, the council was extremely active. Their sale of tickets, candy and winners was profitable. An unusually enthusiastic crowd attended the game and before the game was over the entire stock of candy was sold. It seems the day was a successful one for all concerned.

FHS Wins From Clarkston 19-6

Last Friday, in the first home game of the season, Farmington defeated Clarkston by the score of 19-6. Ralph Banfield again proved to be the scoring weapon for the Blue and White, and ably assisted by the trusty throwing arms of Howard Turner and Don Lee, scored three Farmington touchdowns on forward passes.

About midway in the first quarter, the Farmington offense clicked, and "Bandy" scored the first Farmington touchdown. Pink plunged for the extra point. Late in the first quarter, Bandy again took a pass in the end zone to make the score 12-0. The attempt for the extra point failed.

During the second and third quarters the Clarkston boys got under way, completely outplaying the locals. Using wide end sweeps with Yost doing most of the ball-carrying, they piled up their best yardage but succeeded in putting the ball over only once. With only three yards to go for a touchdown, the stubborn Farmington line held for three plays, but on the fourth play Clarkston relied on their best ground gainer and circled. Farmington's left end for a touchdown. They failed to convert for the extra point.

Farmington again scored in the last quarter on a long pass from Howard Turner to Bandy. The attempted kick from placement failed, making the final score, 19-6.

The game was well attended and the largest crowd of the year did their part in cheering their team to a well earned victory.

WHO'S WHO AMONG MEMBERS OF THE FACULTY

(By Barbara Ryall)

There are several new faces in the faculty, among whom are the following:

Edwin Ewer, born in Sioux City, Iowa. He attended Alma College, where he took, among other subjects, American History, which he teaches here. This is his first school.
