

THEN HE TOLD HER WHY

"Why?" she whispered after his first embrace. Of course man never really knows. But if the truth be told, "would be" your lovely skin made you adorable. "Tis Nature's way. Express this love in your complexion, given by the only almost pure face powder—PRINCESS PAT. No powder of usual starch base can give such loveliness.

THE FARMINGTON STATE BANK

Farmington, Michigan

● We have always tried to make this bank useful to the community in two main ways: (1) To help safeguard its present wealth. (2) To promote its future growth.

We are not satisfied merely to be the "watch dogs" of the community treasury. Our officers and directors consider themselves as "salesmen" who are working hand in hand with you to develop and market local products.

Our interests—like yours—are here, nowhere else. You can count upon our active cooperation in anything that will serve you and the community.

Tablet Is Unveiled at Birthplace of Telephone's Inventor in Edinburgh

British notables gathered in Edinburgh, Scotland, to honor Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, as tablet (upper left in photo) marking his birthplace was unveiled. He was born at 15 South Charlotte St., Edinburgh, March 3, 1847. Inset: Bell in 1876, the year in which he spoke the first intelligible sentence over wire, in Boston, Mass.

Edinburgh, Scotland, paid tribute to one of its most distinguished sons when a tablet was recently unveiled at 15 South Charlotte Street in that city.

Quite in keeping with the modest and unostentatious character of the man whom it honors, the tablet bears merely the inscription:

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL
Inventor of the Telephone
Born here 3d March, 1847

The ceremonies which marked the dedication of the tablet were also fittingly simple. The principal address was delivered by Sir George Lee, engineer-in-chief of the British Post Office, who after outlining Bell's contributions to human progress, both as inventor and as humanitarian, unveiled the memorial, expressing the hope that it "may serve to remind us that genius is a very precious gift to humanity, and that such genius as Bell's is one of the landmarks in the progress of civilization."

At the conclusion of his address, Francis B. Loomis, former U. S. minister to Venezuela, is visiting Holland on behalf of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

He read a message from the Bell family, consisting of the inventor's two daughters, Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor and Mrs. David Fairchild, and nine grandchildren, expressing their appreciation of the honor that had been accorded Dr. Bell and of the invitation which had been extended to them to attend the ceremonies.

After the ceremonies, a group was entertained at luncheon as guests of the British Post Office, at which Lieut. Col. F. N. Westbury, Post Office Regional Director in Scotland, presided. Dr. L. F. Morehouse, technical representative in Europe of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, addressed the guests briefly and read a greeting from President Walter S. Gifford of that company, "on behalf of the thousands of men and women who are engaged in the provision of telephone service in the United States and of millions of American telephone users."

After referring to the important part which Bell's early training and home life in Edinburgh had played in preparing him for his life work,

Mr. Gifford wrote that he counted it a privilege, as an American, "to congratulate the land and city of his birth, as they pay him honor."

A memorial address was delivered by G. W. O. Howe, Professor of Electrical Engineering, University of Glasgow; and other British notables spoke on the early days of the telephone in Great Britain, its development, and the important part it plays in today's existence.

Funds for the tablet were provided by the British Institution of Electrical Engineers, and the movement for its erection was initiated largely by Edwin Seddon, a member of that organization and engineer and manager of the Electricity Department of the City of Edinburgh.

In preparing for the ceremonies, Mr. Seddon did much valuable research work in establishing the facts as to the birthplace of Dr. Bell being 15 South Charlotte Street. Because the family moved from this address to 13 Hope Street, when Alexander Graham Bell was a young child, there has been considerable misapprehension on this point.

LOSEY CORNERS

Work on the new Wilcox school is progressing rapidly. Excavating was begun last week. The new building will be a modern four-room building and a cement sidewalk will be laid from Middle Belt Road in as far as the school which will be completed in time for the fall term.

The Woman's Aid gave an experience party Friday evening. Much merriment was created when the members turned in their earnings and told how they made the money. Mrs. Robert Fredericks presented with a beautiful bouquet of purple stock, yellow glads and ferns. The colors of the Aid. Pie and coffee were served. Twenty-five dollars was added to the treasury.

The past week was a busy week for the children of the 4-H Club. Work was completed for the year. At Northville training school, Thursday evening, Antoinette Ruedisuel and Walter Babcock were chosen health champions for their school. Antoinette, Mildred Bruce and Dorothy Timmerman received gold seals for good workmanship and cooperative work in the club. Mae Ling and Orlin Merriewh were chosen to be in the fashion parade.

Friday Mrs. Timmerman, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Horie, and Mrs. Foster drove cars taking the children to the flower show at Convention Hall.

Saturday Scout Troop 29 gave a reception and entertainment to the mothers. Mrs. Dallas, their leader, is to be congratulated on the fine work these girls are doing in so short a time.

In thanks to the Woman's Aid, I dedicate this bit of verse:
What do flowers mean to me?
Why flowers are people, don't you see?

Violets found in the cool, green woods
Are maidens shy in their purple hoods.

Lilies are people pure and sweet,
That live their lives at the Master's feet.
Rose buds are babies, of course you know.

Thistles are friends that have proved untrue.
Pansies are grandmothers, my dear.
Evermore sweet with the passing years,
The seeds all sown by the Master's hand,
To grow in groups along life's strand.

—Mrs. Robert Fredericks

Mrs. Robert Fredericks was a luncheon guest of Mrs. G. O. Stocker of Detroit, and her mother, Mrs. William Brettenbach, of Saline, who was visiting her daughter.

Property is in demand in the vicinity of the new school. It is reported there is little or none available at the present time.

To The Voters —of— Farmington Township

You will agree that we do not bother the voters during the year. We do not criticize the motives of Republican office holders even when we doubt the value of their policies and methods. "Mud throwing" as a political method is abhorrent to us and we will avoid it even during campaigns.

It goes without saying that our elected officials should be persons of high honesty and integrity. But each official should ALSO possess ability, training, and LEADERSHIP. LEADERSHIP, particularly on the part of the Supervisor, should ANTICIPATE AND MEET THE PROBLEMS of the Township. One of the things he should do, and should have done long ago, is to assume the LEADERSHIP in bringing to Farmington Township certain financial benefits that have been offered by the State and Federal governments, benefits which would have improved the quality of our public services such as roads, schools, drains, relief, unemployment, etc. HAS HE ASSUMED THIS MUCH NEEDED LEADERSHIP IN OUR COMMUNITY? LEADERSHIP is the main point of our program.

A vote for the following candidates is a vote for NEW LEADERSHIP in Township affairs:

For Supervisor, HARVEY W. PERRY.

For Clerk, CHARLES A. BARDWELL.

For Treasurer, ETHEL C. SMITH.

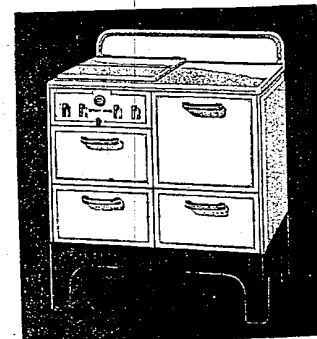

For Justice of the Peace, FLOYD D. HALLOCK.

For Constable, LEO WEDYKE.

For member of the Board of Review, ALBERT H. KOSS.

The Democratic Club of the Township and City of Farmington.

A Buying Guide

Before you order a dinner in a restaurant, you consult the bill-of-fare. Before you take a long trip by motor-car, you pour over road maps. Before you start out on a shopping trip, you should consult the advertisements in The Enterprise. For the same reasons!

The advertising columns are a buying guide to you in the purchase of everything you need—including amusements! A guide that saves your time and conserves your energy; that saves useless steps and guards against false ones that put S-T-R-E-T-C-H in family budgets.

The advertisements in this paper are so interesting, it is difficult to see how anyone could overlook them. . . fail to profit by them. Just check with yourself and be sure that you are reading the advertisements regularly—the big ones and the little ones. It is time well spent . . . always.
