

Propose Hard-Surfacing 174 More Miles of Road

Approximately 174 additional miles of trunkline roads will be hard-surfaced during the next fiscal year if the state highway department's proposed construction projects get under way.

Nearly 32 miles of highway are programmed for widening. Sixteen bridges are scheduled for construction. Fourteen landscaping projects are in the proposals.

This work is included in the $3,572,522 construction proposals for the fiscal year just approved by the state administrative board and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. Of this amount, $4,286,251 will be state funds.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, said this program will be "Christianity when it we have sufficient funds." The list of road improvements that have been programmed provides for:

Concrete pavement widening, 21.3 miles; concrete pavement, 113.2 miles; oil aggregate surface, 15 miles; resurfacing on city streets, 1.6 miles; gravel surfacing, 35.8 miles; gravel base reconstruction, 4 miles; and grading and drainage structures, 198.7 miles.

Miss Frances Knight, director of the Methodist Children's Home, spoke at Albion College League fellowship, last Sunday evening. Miss Knight's subject was "Christianity and the Social Worker" and was followed by refreshments and a social hour.

Health Class Tours Eloise Hospital

The health class went on a trip to Eloise Hospital Monday.

As soon as the students arrived at the hospital they were given an interesting talk on mental disease. The doctor, lecturer, brought out the patients in order for the class to see how they talked and acted.

The first patient the doctors brought out had a serious mental disease, syphilis of the brain. He asked the man to repeat after him the words "round the rugged rock the ragged rascal ran," and the man got all mixed up.

The group then went to the dangerous mental cases and then to the poor house. The trip was educational.

History of Archery

A series of articles on any sport, especially archery about which the average person knows little or nothing, would do well to start with the history of the subject and then mention a few outstanding persons of the past and present who have contributed to the sport.

Archery is old. Legends have discovered arrowsheads as old as 50,000 years. Prehistoric man, with the bow and arrow, could kill his prey at a safe distance instead of risking a hand to hand conflict. This early man could afford much time and labor on the bow and arrow because it not only made the food supply more certain, but gave him security that he did not differ from the fight for mere existence.

All of the old Asiatic peoples were great bowmen. The bow and arrow were their principal weapons of warfare until the discovery of gun powder. The Asiatic people—Chinese, Japanese, Persians, Assyrians, Israelites, Egyptians and Creteans—the Egyptians are said to be outstanding.

During the Middle Ages the English excelled in this sport. At the battle of Hastings (1066) the old short bow, drawn to the chest, was used. It was the most effective bow in Europe until the long bow, from Southern Wales, was adopted by the English armies.

POETRY

Some people write their poetry

For all the world to read.

Their poems write words so beautifully

Their poems are indeed.

They often win a wide acclaim.

The people love them so.

They shower on them all the fame

That famous people know.

But there are always just a few

Who cannot write in verse

The pictures that their warm

heart view

Of this queer universe.

They will not reach an earthly goal.

They will not famous be.

Their verse is locked within their soul.

They live their poetry.

GRADE NEWS

KINDERGARTEN

With Spring near and the afternoons becoming longer, the afternoon group took a walk to the creek recently. They picked up stones, bugs and worms to give to a frog which Helen Fournier brought to school for the new aquarium.

The children enjoyed watching the frog and great plans are being made for him. Sometime during the night Mr. Frog jumped out of the aquarium and as far as we know has been found. The one satisfaction the children have is that he is in the room somewhere.

Jerry Reinke, in the morning class, brought some pictures for the south side of their room. They are Easter pictures and will add to the beauty of the kindergarten room.

SECOND GRADE

The girls and boys have two aquariums. One contains a new and several snails, and is dense with all sorts of water plants and stones. The other has a frog that just sits there and does nothing. This one has clean white gravel and a small amount of water. Several potted plants and pots with orange carrots and bean seeds are planted in jars of water.

THIRD GRADE

Spring is a happy season. Everyone has a good reason. For happy birds are singing. And cheerful bells are ringing.

Let's go out and pick some violets. Pretty blue and purple too. They all are very pretty flowers. And the Mayflowers pink and blue.

—Vera Dietrich, age 8 years.

SIXTH GRADE

The pupils are studying about moss for nature study. Some moss has been given to the children and they are interested in the study of it.

In English the pupils are studying debating. The class is divided into two groups. The question which is being discussed at present is:Resolved: School children should not attend the movies on school nights.

FOURTH GRADE

The class has a new reading book called "Adventure Trails." The lessons are about safety first, animals, famous people, nature, other countries and many subjects which are of interest to the grade.

Pupils read the stories first and then do the work page. This page is divided into six parts that are like games. The first part they fill in a missing word; the second part write sentences to answer questions; the third part is a dictionary meaning game; the fourth part is arranging sentences in their correct order; the fifth calls for drawing a picture, and the sixth part is a word study game. Everyone likes these new work books and are anxious to have reading classes now.
