India Wedding Odd Affair Just think of not being able to tell a wedding from a funeral. What a confusing state of affairs. But that is exactly what would happen if no were travelling in Bengal, in the northeastern part of India, along the road to Mount Everest, asserts a writer in the Washington Star. Almost any day one might meet a procession winding through the hills. In its center some of the marchers would be carrying a bundle suspended from two poles. Such a bundle is wrapped carefully in heavy hangings. Nothlug much can be made out about it except that'll has the shape of a human body. Naturally, the one to the state of the state of the country, thick it is a nerice. But the is mistaken. It is a bride. In this part of India a bride is wrapped over and over again until not a toe or finger is visible. Thus prepared, she is hung between two poles and carried to the new home, where she and her husband are about to set up housekeeping.

To Reduce "Fading"

If an antenna system can be made to obtain maximum response to one of these waves arriving at a certain angle, while filtering out the effects angle, while filtering out the effects of all the other wares, the problem of distortive fading should be largely solved. If Instead of a single antenna, several antennas are used, with their outputs combined by means of suitable phase shifters, their maximum response can be made to occur at whitever angle the incoming ware assumes, with the result that not only will distortion be reduced but the signal will be greatly improved.

A Novel Antenna System

It the antenna units are not too directive, they will be capable of pleiching up waves arriving over a considerable range of angles. By adding additional sets of planes shifters, together with controls for "steering." the system can be made to take care of the waves arriving from several different angles at once and, by combining the audio signals from these waves, after compensating for the difference in delay, the signal to noise ratio can be still further improved.

Valentine Day Dates to Martyr of Third Century Valentine day is an observance which seems to be connected with Valentine day is an observance which seems to be connected with the first signs of spring rather than with the careers or character of any of the several Saints Valentine, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Happening to occur on the date consecrated to a Roman martyr of the Third century, it has simply appropriated his name for what was probably a pre-Christian custom in England and Seotland.

The tradition is that on third custom in England and Seotland. The radition is that on third year. Various old British writers, including Chaucer, allude to such a belief. Emulating the birds, it was the custom in old British, for each young maid and man to receive by lot one of the opposite sex as "walentier" for the year. From this evolved the more recent forms of observing the day.

St. Valentine was a priest of Rome who was imprisoned because he had given assistance to persecuted who was imprisoned because he had given as the proposition of the control of the proposition of the control of

College for Foor White Orphans Girard college at Philadelphia, Pa., is an institution for the vocational education and maintenance of poor white male orphans, as the donor of the trust fund expressed it. The college was founded under the will of Stephen Girard and opened January I, 1848. By a provision in the will no ecclesiastic, missionary, or minister of any sect whatever is permitted to hold office in this institution or to enter its premises at any time or for any

The purest principles of morality were to be instilled into the minds of the scholars.

Jollet, III., Once Juliet
The city of Jollet, III., once bore the name Juliet, which was later changed by the substitution of one letter in the name. The first settiement on the site of the present city was made it iss3, and named Juliet after a daughter of James B.
Campbell, one of the settlers. When a postoffice was established, it bore that name, and it was not until 1845 that it was changed to Jollet in honor of the famous explorer of the Mississippi river.

Odd Relationship An odd relationship existed between Peter Tchaikovsky, the Russian composer, and his patron, Natejda von Meck. a wealthy widow from 1871 to 1890. On condition that they never meet, she gave him, during these years, sums of money which totated about $75,000, notes a correspondent in Collier's Weekly, The agreement was never violated, although they lived close by, passed each other on the street and wrote each other love letters several times a week.
