RAILROAD CARS AID MICHIGAN FRUIT INDUSTRY

Retired refrigerator cars may find an increasingly important place in the Michigan fruit industry. Two converted last year by growers at St. Clair and Hopkins, Mich., are to be tested this summer with ice and with mechanical refrigeration in temporary storage of freshly picked fruit.

Surveys of the project by H. A. Cardwell, horticulturist of Michigan State College, indicate there is hope in "obtaining a three thousand dollar storage room for as little as $139."

Carl Schweikert, Hopkins, bought a retired refrigerator car in Milwaukee, Wis., for $175 with no charge for hauling the car to Kalamazoo. He paid $9.82 to have the car switched off at Hopkins. He paid another six dollars for timbers and blocking and paid out forty-two dollars for jacking and moving the car 1 1/2 miles.

Junk Sold

In the meantime, however, junk dealers bid anxiously for the scrap iron. The successful dealer obtained more than 10 tons of scrap from the running gear, wheels, bumpers, coupling units and all equipment. Schweikert received $2.93 for the junk.

In the fruit season as much as 500 bushels of peaches were stored in the car at a time, cooled with fan and icing. During one severe price drop the grower held on to a car for 10 days and obtained $1.90 a bushel instead of the earlier price of 35 cents.

Both Schweikert and Dr. L. G. Morrill, St. Clair, the other experimenter, used their cars later in the season for fall and winter apple storage with air cooling.

Celeriac makes fine flavoring for and stews.

Savoy cabbage is the finest you can grow in the home garden, and it is seldom found on the market, because it does not keep well and should be used immediately after picking.

Modern stringless beans, half grown, served half an hour after picking, are among the most delicious and nourishing of foods. They are served as a special course by French cooks.

Italian marrow in the baby stage, about four inches long and an inch through, is a rare delicacy, seldom found in the markets because it does not keep. Boiled and served in butter sauce like asparagus, or sliced cold in salad, it is one of summer's supreme treats.

Almost as quick-growing as the early radishes is leptostemum Stillmani, a golden cosmos-like flower which will produce flowers from seed in five weeks. It is excellent for cutting.

Gladious bulbs may be planted as late as July 1 with reasonable assurance of getting flowers before frost comes. Larger bulbs blossom more quickly than small bulbs, so they should be planted last.

Eighth Church of Christ, Scientist - Detroit, Michigan

"Christian Science" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, June 25.

The Golden Text, (Isaiah, 35:10) is: "The ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads; they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Isa. 55:1): "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 12): "In divine Science, where prayers are mental, all may avail themselves of God as a very present help in trouble; Love is impartial and universal in its adaptation and bestowals. It is the open fount which cries, 'Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters.'"

PHONE BOOK REVEALS NAME OF SISTER THOUGHT DEAD

While visiting a friend in Wichita, Kans., recently, Mrs. Myrtle Marler, of Oklahoma City, dropped the telephone directory. The book opened, and as she picked it up she saw the listing of "Ellen Day." Nineteen years ago, Mrs. Marler and a sister by that name had been separated, and she thought the sister was dead. But when she read the name "Ellen Day" she studied the telephone number, out of curiosity, and found, to her great astonishment, that it was her sister. It was a matter of minutes, then, until the two sisters held a reunion.
