Eighth Church of Christ, Scientist
Detroit, Michigan

"God" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 3.
The Golden Text, (Psalms 20:5), "We will rejoice in thy salvation, and in the name of our God we will set up our banners."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Deut. 4, 5): "Fear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord. And thou shalt love the Lord with all thy soul, and with all thy might."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 455): "God is, incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love."

Letters to the Editor are always welcomed by this newspaper.

At The Redford Theatre

Professor Martin Faxon, D. D., of the Department of Zoology, and Professor Roy D. Allen, Director of Physical Education, are pictured above, taking time off between classes for a little truckin' in the new Buick Allen comedy, "College Swing." With Bob Hope also cast, it opens Friday at the Redford Theatre, and continues through until Monday.
"College Swing" is a gay story of what happens when the college nitwit inherits the university through an old will. Jackie Coogan plays the school sweetheart of his own bride, Betty Grable. Others in the supporting cast are Edward Everett Horton, Florence George, Cecil Cunningham and "Skinny" Ennis.
On the same bill for four days the Redford is showing "Pay Men and a Prayer," starring Loretta Young, Richard Greene, George Sanders and C. Aubrey Smith.
Jackie Coogan will thrill his fans on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in his latest role, "Boy of the Streets." Margaret O'Connor is co-starred. The second feature for the three day run will be Paramount's "Bull Dog Drummond's Peril."

Origin of Chesapeake Bay Dog

The origin of the Chesapeake Bay dog is an interesting one, states a writer in the Detroit News. The old sailing vessels always carried a strong ship's dog which, in case of wreck, swam ashore with a light line tied to a heavier line. Rescuers ashore pulled this line in to rig it to a breeches buoy in which to pull in the sailors. Tradition says that the Chesapeake is descended from a red Newfoundland named "Salor" and a black female named "Canton," both rescued from an English ship off the Maryland coast. The descendants of these two were crossed with other blood including that of the otterhound. The Chesapeake is a rugged, powerful fellow, weighing from 55 to 75 pounds. His tan or even straw colored coat of short, wavy hair has a dense undercoat beneath it. His skull is well-rounded, the muzzle pointed but not sharp. His eyes, unlike the dark ones of most sporting breeds should be a clear, bright yellow.

State Names

We pride ourselves on our British background, but we should look at our state names, says a writer in Commentator Magazine. Connecticut is Indian for "river of pine." Idaho means "light on the mountains." Illinois stands for "river of men." The Ioways were a Sioux tribe, Kansas was the name of a Sioux tribe meaning "people of the south wind." Kentucky means "land of tomorrow." Massachusetts is Indian for "great-hill-small-place." Michigan stands for "big lake." Minnesota means "sky-colored water." Mississippi is "fish river." Dakota means "alliance of friends." Ohio is Iroquois for "great." Oklahoma means "red people." Texas means "friends," and so it goes. Only 12 states have names of English origin, but 28 are Indian; the rest are Spanish and French.

Effects of "Hard" Water

"Hard" water contains varying amounts of mineral salts which have a clogging and corrosive action on plumbing lines, heating plants, and cooking utensils. In addition, difficulty is experienced in laundering and washing of all types because it is hard to make suds with such water. Water-softening equipment, by filtration and chemical action, neutralizes or deposits out the mineral content, leaving the water soft for washing and reducing clogging or corrosion in plumbing and heating equipment to a minimum.

Green and Dry Onions From Sets

FOR MATURE DRY ONIONS PLANT JUST DEEP ENOUGH TO COVER THE SET.

FOR GREEN ONIONS USE LARGER SETS AND PLANT THEM FULLY TWO INCHES BELOW THE SURFACE.

Small onion sets should be used in the garden when the objective is large dry onions. For the production of green onions for bunching or sale use larger sets are better than the very small ones. Onion sets from 3/4 inch to 1 inch in diameter or slightly larger, grow faster, because there has been stored up in the bulb plant food which is quickly made available for the growing plant, and green onions grown from larger sets are likely to be more crisp and tender than when the same size of green onion is produced from smaller sets.
For green onions it is advisable to plant onion sets about 2 inches below the surface. So that there will be a succession, many home gardeners plant onion sets at intervals of a week to ten days. White onion sets are the most popular for the production of green onions, but yellows are frequently used, and if one does not object to the color, red onion sets may also be used for this purpose.
From 15 to 30 pounds of large onions can be produced from 1 quart of onion sets which do not run more than 3/4 inch in diameter. At prevailing retail values of both onions and onion sets, from a dollar's worth of onion sets from $25 to $30 worth of onions can be produced.
