At The Redford Theatre

Bing Crosby's latest comedy, "Sing You Sinners," which plays Friday through Monday at the Redford Theatre, turns the crooner away from the fast-stepping and energetic role he played recently in "Doctor Rhythm," and plants him in a role reminiscent of the one he had in "Walkie Wedding." Bing portrays the happy-go-lucky and ne'er-do-well son of a small town family who wins fame for himself and his mad-cap family by persistent nerve, and his incomparable good fortune.

"Sing You Sinners" boasts a cast equal to that of any Crosby picture. Fresh from his successes in "True Confession" and "Cocanut Grove," headlining Fred MacMurray plays the role of Bing's serious-minded and despairing brother, whose romance with "the girl next door" consists of one postponed wedding date after another, due to the family playboy's inability to get himself a permanent job. Elizabeth Patterson, the garrulous but good woman of the movies, seen recently as Claudette Colbert's aunt in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," portrays the boy's long-suffering mother. Donald O'Connor, the new juvenile find, completes the family group.

Paramount's newest star discovery, Ellen Drew, who is being hailed in Hollywood as "the candy store Cinderella," has her first big film role as MacMurray's sweetheart who shares the disappointments, joys and, finally, triumphs of the unpredictable "Beebees." One of the prettiest young ladies to appear before a camera this year, Miss Drew received her unusual little because of her recent discovery by a talent scout in the Los Angeles confectionery shop where she was working.

Wesley Ruggles, who is known throughout the film world for his skill in handling light-hearted comedy plots, both produced and directed the picture. Moviegoers will remember him as the man who filmed Mae West's "I'm No Angel" and more recently, Claudette Colbert's "I Met Him in Paris" and "True Confession."

Playing for the dramatic and humorous "Letter of Introduction." Smooth ex-radio announcer Don Ameche teams with Arleen Whelan in the highly emotional "Gale-ways," which will be showing at the Redford Theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Also playing on the screen will be Kay Francis in "My Bill."

The Junior High School gridlers will welcome the sight of a team that more nearly equals them in weight, and they have high hopes that their Tuesday opponents, Grosse Pointe Country Day School, will pack less磅数 than did their opponents in the first two games, the Plymouth team.

Grosse Pointe will be guests at the athletic field Tuesday, October 18, and will be hosts to the local youngsters, November 8.

The first game in the Junior High school history was unrecited last Thursday, when Coach William Druker's charges went down to defeat by a 20 to 6 count. The second game of the series is being played this Thursday.

The local youths made a commendable showing, considering that it was their first competitive event, and that Plymouth outweighed them more than 25 pounds per man. The visiting team's additional weight is partly due to the fact that ninth graders play the squad, while Farmington has only seventh and eighth graders.

Charles Galette scored Farmington's only touchdown.

Girl Scouts to Observe National Celebration

Troop members of Farmington will join in a national Girl Scout celebration to be held Sunday, October 29, according to their leader, Mrs. Robert Gale. Plans will be made in the near future.

The girls are holding weekly meetings at the Baptist Church, every Thursday afternoon from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m.

The first meeting of the season was held last Thursday, and was in the nature of a get-together for all former scouts and those seeking admission to the troop. An election of patrol leaders and assistants is being held at this week's meeting.

In speaking about plans for the coming year the Supervisor stated, "We contemplate enlarging the Girl Scout program here by organizing a Boyette Pack for the seven to 10-year-old girls, possibly another group of the 10 to 13-year-old girls, and a senior troop for the older girls."
